WORSE THAN WITCHCRAFT

Horrors of the Recent Expose in Zion City Told Graphically and Truthfully

In the twentieth century, which was hailed by scientists as the golden age of scientific progress and development along keen, logical lines—in the very heart of the United States, hailed as the most practical and advanced country for the most ghastly form of witch-baiting, casting out devils by incantations, emphasized by tortures too horrible to believe.

Out in Zion City, Ill., headquarters of fanatics of all sorts and brands, Harold Mitchell is waiting for the law to take its slow course and to pay the price of having tortured and choked Mrs. Letitia Greenhaugh, in the name of casting out evil spirits. As accessories after the crime are held his wife, his chief incanter, Mrs. Louise Smith or Schmidt, and Walter and Jennie Greenhaugh, son and daughter of the murdered woman, who permitted the torturing of her poor, distorted body.

Four hundred years ago in Puritan New England Mrs. Greenhaugh would have been led to the stake and burned. Today the stake and the ducking stool have disappeared presumably because witchcraft is dead. Yet at regular intervals the nation stands aghast at the discovery that religious fanaticism, cropping up in some obscure part of the country, is only witch-baiting in a new form, and witch-baiting, too, of the most dangerous sort.

A BELIEF THAT BORDERS ON INSANITY.

Poor, helpless, tortured Letitia Greenhaugh, lying in a grave that is now the rendezvous of morbid, curious throngs, has paid the terrible, terrible price of modern belief in witchcraft, a belief that borders closely on insanity. Yet her death has probably been a blessing to hundreds of others in that hotbed of fanaticism, Zion City, where Harold Mitchell, a tuxedo worthy of the Spanish Inquisition staff, seems to have exercised a peculiar, dangerous and disastrous power over his followers.

Harold Mitchell is a Parhamite, or member of a religious sect established by Charles K. Parham of Galena, Kan. Like the Christian Scientists, they do not believe in the use of medicines, but prescribe only prayer and the laying on of hands. Mr. Parham denies that incantations or tortures form part of his creed, but Harold Mitchell evidently carried Parhamism from simple prayers to fanaticism, for to praying he added incantations by his followers wrought up to a state of frenzy, and when incantations failed he added the breaking of bones and choking the evil spirits out of the afflicted patients.

Like most religious fanatics, Harold Mitchell is of lowly origin. He was employed as a day laborer around Lake Forest University at Zion City. One day he laid down the lawn mower and raked to announce that his wife had received a message or vision from heaven ordering her husband to drop his work and go out into the world to cast out devils.

MOST OF THE PATIENTS DIE.

In obeying the so-called message Harold Mitchell seemed to follow a strange combination of business shrewdness and half insane hysteria. Even when he was wrought up to a veritable frenzy of prayer and incantation he never forgot to exact his fee, part in advance and part after the treatment, whether the patient died or recovered. According to the coroner's investigation, most of his patients died, and that in a most horrible way. It is thought that twelve were actually tortured by the fanatic and his half insane followers.

This fanatic crossed the path of two poor, ignorant persons whose one redeeming characteristic was their single-minded devotion to an invalid mother. These persons were Walter and Jennie Greenhaugh, devout followers of Dowile while he reigned at the head of his sect, and what little common sense and clearness of mental vision they possessed was beggared by religious enthusiasm. When Dowile died they turned helplessly to the next fanatical leader that came their way, and Mitchell caught them in his net. Walter Greenhaugh is thirty years old and Jennie four years his senior. Neither has married because their lives have been devoted to the care of their mother who was a chronic rheumatic. For thirty years she has been bed-ridden, the cruel disease drawing her knees up to her stomach, her arms bound to her sides, her fingers crooked and gnarled and even her neck affected so that her head was awry. The muscles, in the cruel grip of the relentless disease, were like bunches of dried leather. Still she had learned to bear her sufferings with a wonderful degree of courage and found much happiness in life.

Enter upon this scene of filial devotion and maternal resignation Harold Mitchell, fanatic. He could and would cast out the devils that held the mother's body and soul in bondage. She would pick up her bed and walk—at his command—provided $30 was paid for his hard task of exorcising the demons within her. Twenty dollars was all the son and daughter could raise at the moment, but they agreed to work out the remaining ten after the miracle should be performed.

A night was set for the miracle. Mr. Mitchell and Mrs. Louise Smith, their "incanter," appeared at the humble Greenhaugh cottage. The Mitchells were to invoke the good spirits and Mrs. Smith's duty was to expel the evil ones. It was a great night for poor, ignorant Walter and Jennie Greenhaugh. They went to the bedside of the mother upon whom they had lavished years of devotion and told her how the radiant light of the Holy Ghost had illumined the pathway of the fanatics to their home, along which the good and the evil spirits struggled for mastery.

Drunk with religious frenzy the Greenhaughs stepped back and the fanatics commenced their diabolical practices. They announced that at a certain signal the myriads would stand up. Little time was wasted on incantations. Mrs. Mitchell stripped the covering and clothing from the aged sufferer and pulled vigorously on one of the distorted ankles. The sufferer screamed with pain, but the "demonologist" continued to pull. Naturally she could not straighten out the distorted limb, so she ordered the woman's own son to sit upon the leg. As he did so there came a horrible crunching, crackling sound, followed by screams from the tortured woman. The son and daughter became alarmed, but were assured by the fanatics that the screams were only the utterances of the unwilling devils being forced from the body they had disfigured, while the breaking of the bones was the noise of the devils passing out.

And those two ignorant creatures, ignorant of everything but a fanatical religion, believed that the miracles of the first Christian era were being duplicated beneath their humble roof. Both arms were pulled from the body to which they had been fairly glued by disease and relentlessly broken. The agony of breaking bones caused the patient to bleed at the nose and mouth. This blood was caught by the fanatic Mitchell and scattered all over the woman's face as he called loudly: "This is the blessing of God, the curse to the devil!"

Here the son and daughter interfered, but were pushed aside by the fanatics. It was not their mother screaming for help, but the devils within her. Then Mitchell began with mumblings and vague promises of his long, lean hands above the brained body to hypnotize his victim. Again the tortures were renewed and finally the woman with incredible strength struggled against her persecutors, and this time the fanatical leader grasped her by the throat. Silence ensued.

Mitchell then turned to the son and daughter and bade them sit on either side of the bed and await the miracle. Their mother was sleeping!

All night they sat thus beside the dead form, the fanatic and his companions chanting and praying, and then toward morning Walter Greenhaugh leaned over to kiss his mother and found her face cold in death.

Benjamin Hopkins, a Zionist undertaker, was summoned and all arrangements were made for a secret burial the next night, at 12:30, but the peculiar hour and certain stories regarding the practices of Mitchell caused the chief of police of Zion City to summon the coroner. A day later and the horrible story was public property. It flashed all over the United States. The papers announced that the parson had been disgraced on the very threshold of the twentieth century by witch-baiting and torture worse than any charged against old New England, or against Torquemada in Spain.

Investigation developed the fact that Harold Mitchell, Parhamite, was not merely a religious fanatic, but a demon with bloodlust. It is thought that at least twelve men, women and children were the victims of his horrible practices, for, when the evil demons refused to be exorcised he proceeded to choke them out of the patient and incidentally choked out the life of his victims.

And so have poor tortured Letitia Greenhaugh and her son and daughter, weeping in the grip of stern and relentless law, paid once more the price of the same fanaticism and belief in witchcraft which in the earlier history of the world led men and women to the stake.

SHOWING THAT "WITCHCRAFT" AND "WITCH-BAITING" DIE HARD

Last hanging of a "witch" at Salem, Mass., 1692.
In 1893 an Arab woman who called herself a witch doctor tortured and almost killed children around Dixville, Pa., who were given to her for treatment for fits.

In January, 1894, three persons were expelled from the Methodist Church, at Salem, O., for accusing another member of witchcraft.

Hexerei, or witch doctors, still do a thriving business in Pennsylvania. In May, 1906, a woman was attacked as a witch at Bristol, Conn., and accused of casting a spell over women to prevent them bearing children.

In January, 1907, a family in Butte, Neb., demanded the arrest of a witch for putting a spell upon them.

In July, 1907, a woman was arrested at Vincennes, Ind., charged with witchcraft.

In August, 1907, a man and a woman missionary were attacked at Greenwich, Conn., by people who asserted the pair bewitched their children.

Why This Man Is Favored by Women

Cooks, Washes, Makes Beds and Helps His Wife

CHICAGO, Oct. 19. — Robert K. Hill of 5309 Westworth avenue, Chicago's model husband and charter member of the Chicago Home Husband's Association about to be organized by enthusiastic believers in the Hill system of making home happy, declares himself—

THE HIGHEST PRICED CHEF IN THE WORLD.

He cooks only for a small coterie, including his wife and one or two of her friends, and his pay is—

"A life's devotion by a charming woman."

Mrs. Emily H. Hill, president of the Cook County W. C. T. U., and a busy club worker, is the lucky woman whose spouse in a loving defense of the home husband gave out the other day this remarkable interview:

Fifty thousand home husbands can be found in Chicago, Mr. Hill declares, most of whom can and do help their wives in housekeeping emergencies.

Here are a few of the Hill articles of faith:

- 1—Man and woman were created equal. The apple incident did not condemn womankind to perpetual servitude at the dishpan.
- 2—No man is too good to help any good woman at anything her hand may find to do.
- 3—No man should marry until he has mastered the rudiments of cookery, since otherwise his wife becomes the slave of a kitchen range.
- 4—It is better to be a star dishwasher than the best barroom story teller in the world.

"I am getting altogether too much fame out of my modest accomplishments," said Mr. Hill the other day. "I don't want to claim the credit of being Chicago's model husband, because—"There are fifty thousand men in Chicago who can cook, sweep, make beds, wash dishes, and do the housework generally."

"I don't say that there are so many who do their own housework, because generally such men have good wives, but I say that there are many men who in an emergency can—

Bake bread.

Run a sewing machine.

Make the beds.

Cook an omelet.

Make toast.

Brew tea or coffee.

Care for the teething baby.

Read paper aloud.

Get up a dinner.

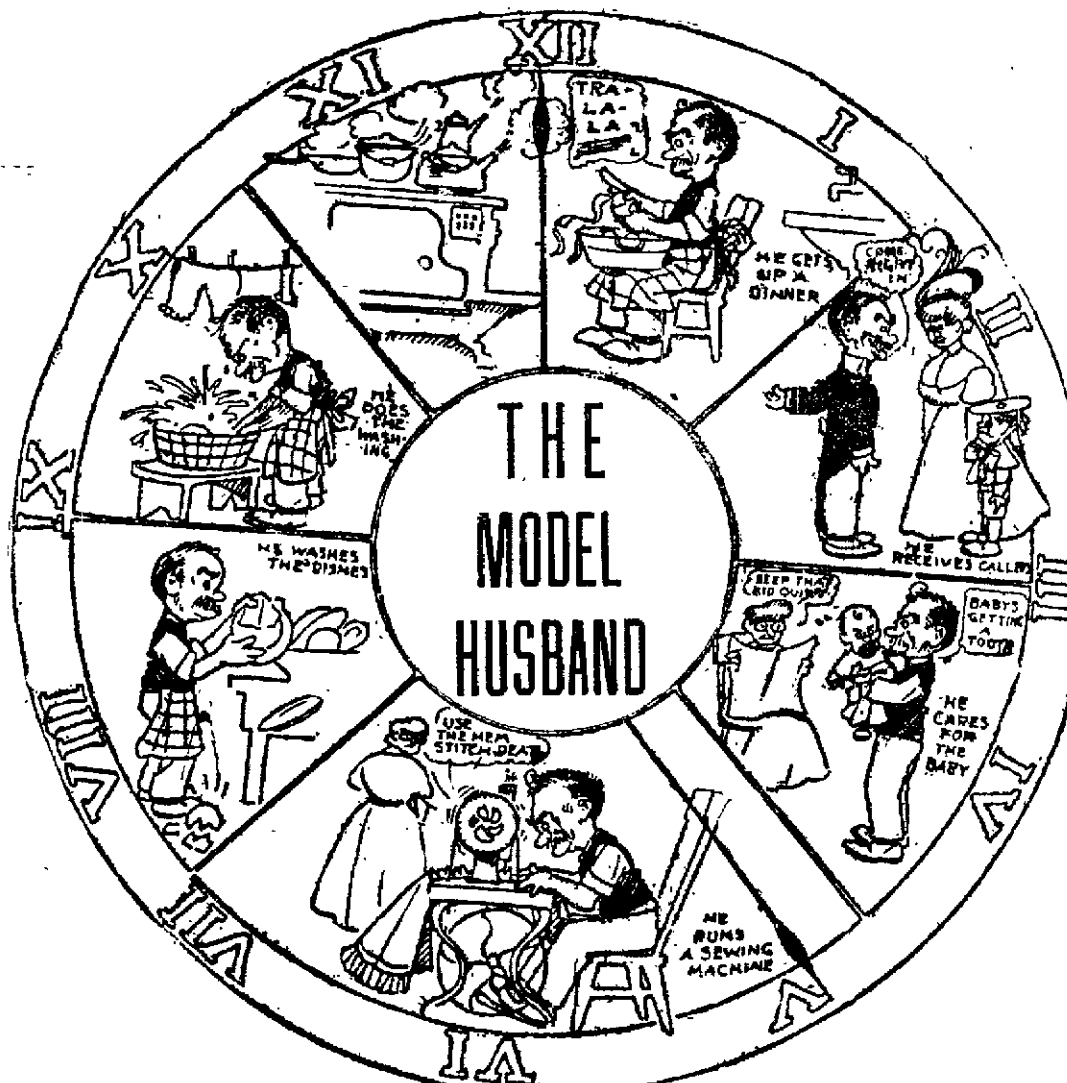

Wash dishes.

Receive callers.

"I don't see why any man should be afraid to hold up his hands and admit that when his wife is kept out late he takes her joy in hustling to have a light dinner on the table when she gets home."

A GEM ON CORN FRITTERS.

"I am convinced that my wife has more than once adopted the complimentary subterfuge of remaining a little late so that she could sit down to one of my boiled dinners, with my coffee and my corn fritters. I've an established reputation for corn fritters and if you doubt it ask my wife's friends."

AROUND THE CLOCK WITH A HOME HUSBAND.

"I want to tell you that making corn fritters is an accomplishment; making coffee is another, and a right boiled dinner is one of the noblest works of God."

"Of course Mrs. Hill does her own housework most of the time just as all other good women do. It is only in an emergency that I jump into my white canvas kitchen coat, stick a white cap on my head and become—

THE HIGHEST PRICED CHEF IN THE WORLD.

Says Men and Women Were All Created Alike

"The price I'm paid is a life's whole-souled devotion by a charming woman whose smile of delight when she smells my boiled dinner from afar makes my white cloth kitchen cap of greater worth to me than a crown of jewels."

"What do I care if they call my wife a 'NEW WOMAN'?"

"If she's a new woman—I'm a NEW MAN. It's an even break, and nobody loses."

AMH! THE NOBLE BOILED DINNER.

"How to make a boiled dinner? Why, certainly. Delighted! Usually, I don't give away my recipes, but to benefit the race of home husbands and popularize the cult, here goes."

"Put the mutton bone or basket of beef into cold water over a brisk fire. If you've earned the beef yourself, soak it over night. If not, it can go right in the pot. Put just enough water to cover. Let it come to a boil in about half an hour. Just before it boils, skim the pot."

"If the piece weighs eight pounds it ought to take two hours and a half, but for two hours of the time it must just simmer on the back of the stove."

"Three-quarters of an hour before you dish up, skim the pot again and put part of the liquor off the meat in another kettle, putting in first a cabbage, cut in four quarters, then half dozen peeled medium-sized white turnips halved, four scrubbed carrots and four parsnips, each cut in four pieces."

"Into the kettle with the meat half an hour before serving pour more boiling water and into this put ten medium-sized peeled potatoes."

"If you want to have everything 'up to Dick' serve hot sliced beets on the side with vinegar over 'em. Boil the cabbage, parsnips, etc., for about an hour."

"Just before you figure your wife is going to show up, put the plates and the fork for your dinner on a radiator to heat, or heat them with warm water. Don't put them in the oven, because that makes them too hot and you're liable to swear when you go to take 'em out, which often spoils the effect."

SCURRY WHEN YOU HEAR WIFE.

"When you hear the key in the latch make a wild scurry to get everything on the table before she can get her bonnet off, and you have the first installment of your reward when she calls:

"Oh, you dear old man, how lovely that coffee smells!"

"Of course, she will pretend she doesn't know you've got a whole boiled dinner waiting for her to sit down to, because that's the way of a woman. Bless her heart, she wants to be surprised in spite of herself. If you did the same thing 500,000 times she'd still be surprised."

"You get the second installment when she comes out to the dining room pretending she can't smell that boiled dinner, throws up her hands, elevates her eyebrows, even blushes with pleasure and cries:

"Why! the dear, dear man — if he didn't go to work and make a dinner for his lazy wife and—my favorite dinner, too."

"And the next thing you know you've been kissed comatose and elevated to the highest pinnacle of achievement."

"Way, hang me, if I wouldn't rather put over a boiled dinner on my wife than hoof out the best golf score ever made over the Hyde Park links."

Chorus Girls Wed Or Become Stars

Even though exactly fifty-seven marriages have been made within two years by young women affiliated with the drama as members of Joe Weber's company, and although the matrimonial percentage in some other companies is high, not enough of the chorus girls get married to prevent many of them from becoming stars.

Most of them that do marry retire from the stage, a though many of those that marry actors remain on the stage.

Still, matrimony or no matrimony, the chorus continues to contribute lavishly to the list of stars.

Lulu Glaser, who was married not long ago, began in the chorus. She had the unusual experience of becoming the leading woman in the company in which she first appeared in the chorus. This was promoted to a leading part. In a few months after her first appearance on the stage she became the leading member of "The Belle of New York" company.

Mabel Barrison was in the chorus before she became a leading player.

Hattie Williams, who stars now in "The Little Church," went on the stage as a chorus girl, and worked for almost an entire season before she was given even the slightest speaking part.

Another actress who now secures a comfortable salary each week is Florence Holbrook. Not only has she been in the chorus but her husband, Cecil Lean, also has been in the chorus. The pair agreed some years ago that they would not be separated by professional engagements. So it often became necessary for one of them to go into the chorus in a company in which the other had a leading part.

Curiously enough, the one woman in the theatrical business that is most popular with the chorus girls never has been in the chorus herself. Ethel Barrymore is the actress by whom all the real chorus girls swear. She has endeared herself to them by countless courtesies. One of her points is always to make her "professional matinees" worthy of the name. Many players regard professional matinees simply as a method of getting into the theater money that would not come in on any other afternoon. Real players who want to attend sometimes find that all the seats have been sold. With Miss Barrymore's matinees the chorus girl always is just as welcome as the highest priced star, and everywhere the actress goes the chorus girls turn out to do her honor.

In Richard Mansfield's company last season there were two actresses who had made their start in the chorus of musical comedy companies. One of them went directly from the chorus to the company of the august Richard.

Frances Belmont, who was seen as Charles Hawtrey's leading woman in "A Message From Mars," used to be in the chorus. She was one of the really truly members of the only and original "Floradora sextet."

Her marriage lately has been conspicuous, as has that of Camille Clifford, who was a chorus girl before she was given a small part in "The Prince of Pilsen." She made her first appearance on the stage as a member of a singing and dancing chorus that backed up the comedy of Gilbert Gregory.

Edith Johnson, who made one of the big hits in "The Red Mill," started in the chorus at the old Dearborn in Chicago and it was there that they May De Souza and other players got their first chance.

Marie Dora, the little beauty who is William Gillette's leading woman, was in the chorus before she went to playing small parts, and if all the players who have at one time or another served in the chorus were to be assembled in one organization their numbers would be much greater than the of any audience that could be gathered in one place to watch them perform.

The chorus really is the kindergarten for musical comedy actresses. Marie Tempest has declared that she would prefer to be surrounded by a company the members of which were drawn exclusively from the chorus than to be given a supporting organization none of the parts of which had enjoyed chorus experience.

The chorus girl that gets $18 or $20 a week or (as in the summer more often $15 a week than a higher figure) is born up by the thought that, no matter how much hard work she is called upon to do there never is a time when she may not be called to go up higher, as many of her predecessors have done.

In connection with the revival of a few seasons ago of one of the most popular of the old time musical shows it was suggested that the members of the original chorus, so far as was practicable be gathered together as a chorus for the company that was to give the revival. It was found that many of them had gone so far in their profession that they could not go back into the chorus, even for a few performances, without losing a great deal of money called for by their contracts as leading players. The road to but so long as the chorus girls travel and become stars and leading actresses it is unlikely that the road will be found to be either deserted or lonesome.

At least seven have ruined themselves for her. Two of these met tragic deaths on her altar. One tried vainly to commit suicide. Two are in prison and of them the details of their lives are not known. One woman waiting for her in the underworld has confessed to a crime of which she is proud.

1. The first step in the process of the formation of a new species is the isolation of a small group of individuals from the main population. This is often achieved by geographical isolation, such as the formation of an island or a lake, or by ecological isolation, such as the formation of a new niche. Once isolated, the group may evolve independently of the main population, leading to the formation of a new species.

The California boys showed to better advantage this year and their physical advantage was not so apparent as in the previous year. The lighter men to the line after which they were allowed a try for a goal. Butler from a thirty yard line in a one too easy position kicked a point. The men following close in on a fumble. If the men were of one mind in regard to weight and division of the money, Rickard would probably secure the match. Horatius was a sensational performer in his day. Climbed out of a selling race by Ramsey for $25 in his early three-year career, he won the 1910 Kentucky Futurity for $100,000. He was sold to Forsythe he was taken up to Seattle where he won the Dechy and numerous other stakes, being easily the best horse there. His form the next winter was even better, and such he performed in a creditable manner.

Later on Ramsey sold a half interest to Frank Skinner and he was shipped East and raced at Chicago, where he won the 1911 Kentucky Futurity for $100,000. He was then shipped to the Coast selling stakes, giving away lumps of weight and winning in hollow style. Toward fall his eyesight began to fail him and it was freely predicted that he would never be a winner. Ramsey, however, was loth to believe it and nursed him along so well that in the succeeding winter he came back in his old form, winning a number of stakes and was sold to the Coast for $100,000, in which he defeated the crack race mare Painty, coming from behind in a sensational drive, just getting up in time and the Wash-coast cup at two miles and a quarter.

He never made a profitable one, his last heading for three miles, he tired badly and was sent to the muddy condition of the

ALL-AMERICAN BASEBALL TEAM HARD TO PICK

ST. MARY'S COLLEGE WILL HAVE BASKETBALL SQUAD

Local Institution of Learning Will Add Popular Pastime to Its Athletic Curriculum.

At an enthusiastic meeting of the St. Mary's College basketball association, held last night, the members of the student body voted upon the necessity of enrolling basketball in the list of sports, which St. Mary's is endeavoring to handle this year. The idea was immediately carried upon and William Kidston, chosen manager, who in turn called upon Mr. Granella to act as his assistant. Out of the end of the meeting, the manager's call for aspirants to basketball laurels, a first and second team were formed and made ready to begin practice. The rules of the sport were thoroughly drilled into them. Both teams have been put in condition and the following week are to play a series of six games at the end of which the manager will be in a better position to judge and pick the men that are to represent St. Mary's. Those that promise well are: Bill Dunn, R. Conannon, C. Manning, H. Granella, G. Miller, W. Burke, R. McNeill, H. McNeill, M. Dodd, J. Kelly and W. Kidston.

The manager has arranged a schedule with numerous teams about the bay, some of them being the Western Union, three, and Stockton. Negotiations are in progress over arrangements with teams from San Francisco, Berkeley, Stanford, and California Universities and many others. An active season is expected to be opened in the winter sports at the college, and it is as a result of this that St. Mary's as a team in the past has been able to represent it in the past.

Basketball has been the most popular of winter sports at the college for a number of years, but until the season a few months past had not been played in the college, but now it has its place in the curriculum.

BEAVERS POUND THEIR WAY TO A TEN-INNING VICTORY

McCredie's Men Came With a Rush at End, and, Aided by Streib's Errors, Won by Score of 8 to 4.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—With the bunglework of McCredie at second base, the Beavers again lost to the Seals this afternoon out at Recreation Park, 8 to 4. They were present with just three errors out of five chances, and as one of them gave the Beavers the victory which brought them victory, it may safely be asserted that they had a bad day, of which, he said, he had been having several in these few days. His main offense came in the tenth inning, right on top of a vigorous batting rally by the Seals in their half of the ninth. Up to the time of that rally, the score stood 4 to 1 in favor of the Beavers, and, with two out, it surely looked like an easy win for McCredie's men. But the boys got started walloping the ball, and when the inning closed they had the score tied up.

And then came the first half of the tenth and Tay's error. He booted a fairly easy chance when two were down. The avalanche of runs that followed would have turned D. Long's ebullient hair to gray, but Dan is on the choco-choco cars three thousand miles away.

Kinsella and Henley were the slubmen, and as the game moved on, Kinsella's initial victory over the Seals, "Silver," it was something of an epoch.

The Beavers got two of their marks in the second inning, due to heavy hammering. Kennedy and Bassey each ripped off a two-sacker, Kennedy scoring on Bassey's and Bassey scoring on a long single to center from the bat of Mott. In the third the Seals broke in with a run. Hildebrand singled and stole second. Piper walked. Williams singled to center and Hildebrand rounded in.

McCredie's bunch made a brave effort to clinch the honors in their half of the ninth. Rafferty slapped a vicious one down to Henley, which struck that young man's foot and carried him off to right field. Mr. Henley sacrificed, and then rapped a single through short, and he and Rafferty both scored on Kennedy's second two-bagger to center.

The Seals rallied courageously in their half of the same inning, with two out Zerk shot a single to center, a single to center. Streib followed him

RIDES BICYCLE TO KEEP IN SHAPE FOR BASEBALL

Men have often wondered, and his fellow players asked how Vic Willis, the elongated Pittsburgh twirler, always remains in such good condition, ready to jump into the fray as if this were not his twelfth year in fast company, and pitching as good ball today, if not better, than he ever pitched before.

Willis explained it all in a chat the other day. He said: "Bicycle riding—that's the secret of my training. You know I live in the south of Delaware, where the winters are not so awfully wintry, and there you may see me, on my half mile day, on the silent steed. Of course, I do not say that I am the only man who ever uses that means of keeping in trim. Many of the best pugilists use the wheel in keeping down weight before the grueling battle, and what battle is harder than the National League season?"

"You see, the principal thing in riding a wheel is the exercise you get. It's just as well. A good rider uses his body as much as his arms in steering; the swaying, therefore, brings every muscle of the back into play. I think my condition is a pretty good development of the wheel, if my arguments seem weak; but I think you will agree with me that there are not many machines a man uses in the open to bring himself into trim which will compare with the wheel."

Cast-Off Players Are Often Reclaimed by Major Leagues

In looking over the list of players drafted by major league baseball teams, there is found a number of familiar names. This fact bears out the point that a player may be relegated from the majors to the minors and come back to the fast set and make money for the Cincinnati team, found no big league team willing to bid for his services when President Herrmann released him last winter.

He was forced to accept a place with the Toronto team of the Eastern League, and so excellently did he perform this season that he will have another opportunity to show his worth in his baseball society. Next season he will be found in the outfield of the Boston Nationals.

Thoney, of the best outfielder outside the major leagues, the Boston Americans had to pay a steep price to obtain his release, for a number of clubs bid for him. Thoney is another comeback. He played both with New York and Cleveland, but was permitted to get away. His experience in the minors, it is said, has polished him into a very useful player.

Pitcheur McQuillen of the Phillies was tried by Manager Murray last spring, but was turned over to the Athletics, where his baseball education finished. He re-

John Ganzell Tells a Good Story on Foxy Connie Mack

John Ganzell, first baseman of the Cincinnati Nationals, who played against Connie Mack in the Western League, says of his methods:

"He was a terror to youngsters. Every game we played against him, we had to warn our kids not to pay attention to Mack's talk."

"With that nimble tongue of his he could scare a kid who was nervous or jolly into reverendness as a swelled-up newcomer. Then, before he knew it, his attention had been attracted from the pitcher long enough to make him fan or give some easy chance."

"It took a kid four or five games to learn the risk of paying attention to that skinny fox back of the plate."

"But not alone against youngsters did Connie tell his mottle. It was Anson himself, the great leader of the Chicago Nationals, who fell a victim to one of the slickest tricks Connie ever pulled off. It is a famous story."

Mack was then with Pittsburgh, and Anson was pitching. Chicago, with only one run needed to tie and two out, had the bases filled and Anson up. The old man was the terror of all pitchers to that day, and never landed harder on a ball than when a hit meant runs.

But Anson was the perfect judge of a ball, and never would aim at bad ones. The ball at which he swung had to cut the plate. On this occasion Anson hit a trifle wild, and the first two balls were wild. The third out the plate, but Anson let it go. The next was another strike, but still the old man waited. He could hit just as well with two strikes as none, and anyway a base on balls would tie the score.

It was a critical situation, for if Gumbert put that next ball over it was a cinch that the old man would land on it hard, and perhaps break up the game. The catcher of the Cubs, Hamshill, picked up the ball and waited for the pitcher long enough to make him fan or give some easy chance.

"It took a kid four or five games to learn the risk of paying attention to that skinny fox back of the plate."

"But not alone against youngsters did Connie tell his mottle. It was Anson himself, the great leader of the Chicago Nationals, who fell a victim to one of the slickest tricks Connie ever pulled off. It is a famous story."

Burkett Springs Gag on Hurst

Jesse Burkett, known in professional baseball circles as the "tomb," on account of his sunny disposition and angelic behavior when on the ball field, was nevertheless one of the game's greatest batsmen, as well as a good outfielder. Jesse was also a kiddier, but one of the sarcasmic kind. He was a witty fellow, and was also there with the punch, as Tom Loftis, one of Washington's long line of managers can testify.

Tim Hurst and Burkett used to shoot awful things at one another, and they were both there with the goods when it came to ready repartee, but Jesse and Tim were always good friends—in fact, it is impossible to get away with them, because he will salute you like a brother a couple of minutes after he has threatened to punch your face.

One day before the game at St. Louis, on which team Jesse used to play, Tim and the then noted batter were discussing matrimony. Tim was then thinking about embarking in it, and he wished to get some pointers from the wise old Jesse.

When the conversation came around to children, Tim, turning to Jesse, said: "I have many children, have you got, Jesse?"

"I have three," replied Burkett, "and last July I celebrated the fourth."

ALL-AMERICAN BALL TEAM WOULD INCLUDE STAR PLAYERS FROM BOTH MAJOR LEAGUES

KLING WOULD GET THE JOB OF CATCHER

Chicago Backstop Would Have No Rivalry for Backstop Position on the Team.

By T. P. MAGILLIGAN.

Now that the big baseball series is over and Chicago's National League Club has the title of world's champions safely tucked away, the sporting writers of the country can indulge in picking what in their humble opinions would make the greatest baseball club in the world.

And let me tell you, this is no easy task. There are quite a few good ball-players in every position on big league teams, and to say which is the best in any particular spot is liable to call down some merited criticism.

There is one position—that of catcher—in which there is little competition for the honor of being the greatest. No one can safely deny the fact that Kling is in a class by himself.

Kling is the greatest catcher since the days of the late lamented Martin Bergen of Boston.

In his day Bergen was the best ideal of a catcher, but to turn him into a fact, Bergen was of such a variable disposition that there was no getting along with him, and this lessened his value somewhat as a backstop. Yet for all his peculiarities he was a backstop, and he was a chest protector over his manly bosom.

And throw, no man ever could beat him at it. He could almost hit a silver dollar on second base.

However, Bergen's bad temper nullified in the saddest of all baseball circles. In a fit of melancholy this useful backstop destroyed his wife and his entire family and with the destroying implement put an end to his own life.

Kling is practically no weakness. He is the best hitting catcher in the world, and probably having Lou Criger, is the most accurate thrower in the game today. Also he is speedy of foot, of an equal disposition and a fine fellow.

Kling is one of the few Hebrews in baseball. He is a very intelligent fellow and during the winter months runs a splendid billiard hall in Kansas City, Mo., his home town. Kling, besides being the greatest catcher in the world, is one of the best pool and billiard experts in America. At one time he played for the title of world's champion at pool and lost it.

It is his catching ability that we have to do with, and with this attainment we can find no fault, and if we had an All-American team, Kling and no one else, should be the catcher.

It is hard to pick the three best pitchers. Although Donovan was unable to stop the head-long march of the Chicago Cubs, he must be rated a great pitcher. He was always that.

BROWN A GREAT TWIRLER.

Brown of Chicago is another great slubman. When he is right he is practically unhittable, and he is generally right.

Donovan and Brown would be two of our pitchers, and because Rube Waddell is the best of all the left-handers, we believe he is entitled to great consideration.

T. P. MAGILLIGAN.

Mathewson, in his day, was a world-wonder, but somehow or other it seems as though Mutt's has lost the great power he once possessed. But when Matty follows him in pitching ability.

We cannot see much the matter with the selection of Donovan, Brown and Waddell. They are certainly the candy, and would make good against any team.

CHASE IS STRONG.

The first base position resembles the catching situation very much, inasmuch as there is one man who stands out prominently above his fellows, and that one man is Hal Chase of California. Let them talk of their Harry Davises, and their Tim Jordans, but let me tell you they are not in the same class with King Day. Chase would be good enough for us, any old time. Now think it over, wouldn't he suit you?

There is just one second baseman worthy of real serious consideration, and that one man is Napoleon La Jolie. He has it all on all the other keystone guardians a city mile. No second baseman in either league approaches him in anything. La Jolie is the king of the second basemen, and the best we have had in the National game since the days of Fred Dunlap.

Wagner would be our shortstop. This bravey German celebrated his fifth season as his league's leading baseman the season just closed. No shortstop living approaches him in anything. Wagner is the awkward clever sort of ball player.

As he is graceful as a pet pachyderm, but he gets results. Besides leading his league in batting, he was the best base runner in the National League last season. He can also play any other position on the field, and his only weakness is the fact that he is not the greatest man in the world.

BRADLEY GOOD AT THIRD.

If Bradley of Cleveland were right, he would be our third baseman. He is a tall slender fellow, as fragile as our own Ben of Los Angeles, but he is truly a marvelous third baseman. He knows how to cover a base, as an art which few of the third basemen ever master. When Collins was right he was the very best third sacker in the business, but he seems to have passed the period of his usefulness.

George Stone of St. Louis would be our left fielder. Stone is a splendid batsman and a good base runner, and can stand about as good as any of the left fielders of the present day.

Ty Cobb would be our choice for center field. Cobb has proven by his work this year that he is a star ball player, and one of the most natural batters that the game has ever known. He would about suit the most fastidious when it comes to playing center field and batting.

If Mike Dolin was really Mike Dolin, we would choose him as our right fielder. But he is not at his best now, and we would therefore choose Crawford, the great right fielder of the Detroit.

This, we believe, would make a pretty useful ball team. Can you beat it?

One man who deserves great credit for trying to give to Oakland a good ball team is President Ed. Walter. Mr. Walter's selection, but the New York team has been watching the work of many of the minor leaguers this season, but has been in a measure unsuccessful.

DONOVAN ONE OF THE GAME'S BEST PITCHERS

'Wild Bill' Did Not Show to the Best Advantage in the World's Series.

The Oakland magnate picked three excellent players, recently, but was unfortunate that two major league clubs, and the Memphis club of the Southern League entertained just as good an opinion of the men as did Mr. Walter.

Outfielder De Goff of Troy in the New York State League was one of Mr. Walter's selections, but the New York Americans also wanted him and they got him. Another player whom Mr. Walter thought well of was Pitcher Carter of Syracuse. But again a major league club butted in and Pitcher Carter will be a member of the Philadelphia Americans next season. So good a judge of ball players as Connie Mack endorsed Mr. Walter's judgment by securing this man. The third man that Walter had picked out for Oakland was Cranston, a New York State League infielder. Memphis also heard of Cranston and secured this very promising young man over the purchase route.

The selection of the foregoing players shows that Mr. Walter is a keen judge of ball players. Although he lost three, Mr. Walter is not in the least discouraged. He expects to land some promising players before the season rolls around again. He is on the job, and he expects to have a strong line-up next season, it will not be Mr. Walter's fault.

Jack Drennon, who umpired the Pacific Northwest League, is in the city. Mr. Drennon had a very successful season, and will return to the Lucas organization next spring. In the meantime he will work in the Bay cities at his trade of electrician.

Danny Long seems to have picked up a rather fast sort of player in Piper, who plays the center garden for the Seals. The "rasher" has been hitting the ball with great gusto, has shown some class on the bases and appears to be a real thing of good. If he improves as much next year as he has since coming here he will prove quite a star for the Seals.

Melchior is another man that Long deserves credit for securing. The Seals' right fielder seems to be a rather fair sort of ball player. He is quite a hitter, and has probably the best wing in the Coast League.

Angels Win Games From Commuters

LOS ANGELES, October 18.—The Angels put another picket on their pennant force, this afternoon when they won out in the ninth inning from the Oaks and turned what looked like a sure defeat into a great 5 to 3 victory.

Kitty Brashear was the hero of the day, as he was the hero of the previous day, at the end of the ninth inning, when his long two-bagger hit to the deep center field fence scored Carlisle and Cravath across the home plate with the winning run.

Empire Quigg did not show up today. He had previously tendered his resignation, giving as a reason that the abuse heaped upon him by the players and the failure of the league officials to back him up. He was scheduled to pitch for the Angels today, but was replaced by De Goff.

BRIGHT DAYS FOR IRELAND

Redmond Sees Much That Is Encouraging.

Pleads for Unity in the Ranks of Workers for Home Rule and Asks for More Help.

DUBLIN, Oct. 19.—John E. Redmond, M. P. leader of the Irish Parliamentary party, is hard at work for the cause of Home Rule for Ireland. He has been speaking considerably of late and has been received everywhere with large and enthusiastic audiences. Redmond is a brilliant speaker and gets right at the heart of things. In spite of all that Ireland has suffered he has hopes of brighter days ahead through the efforts of the party of which he is the leader. Redmond is undaunted by setbacks and every defeat makes him more vigorous and active for the cause to which he has devoted his life. Recently he has been devoting much time to figures which show how Ireland has been debilitated by taxes and how this has caused her industries to be paralyzed, how the tax system has been injurious to the tax payer and the burden of the tax is staggering under Mr. Redmond's picture thus:

Having regard to the relative wealth of Great Britain and Ireland, Ireland is paying two and three quarters millions more than her fair proportion. That has been going on more or less since the Union and the result is that Ireland has paid £2,000,000,000 in overtaxation. That is a fact which has grown worse because of the millions added to the tax in the last few years. Redmond says that this is the greatest of all arguments in favor of Home Rule. It is the greatest of all our national grievances. Ireland is being bled to death and remember that it is the poorest of the poor. The population who suffer most because of the tax is the whole of the population. Ireland is being bled to death and remember that it is the poorest of the poor. The population who suffer most because of the tax is the whole of the population. Ireland is being bled to death and remember that it is the poorest of the poor. The population who suffer most because of the tax is the whole of the population.

ROBBERY BY TAXATION
In speaking of how Ireland has been robbed of the hundred millions of pounds within the last hundred years by taxation Mr. Redmond says:
"Ireland is being bled to death and remember that it is the poorest of the poor. The population who suffer most because of the tax is the whole of the population. Ireland is being bled to death and remember that it is the poorest of the poor. The population who suffer most because of the tax is the whole of the population."

It is provided by the seventh article of the act of the union that Ireland and Great Britain were to be treated as separate national entities and that Ireland was only to contribute to the general expenses of the empire in proportion to her resources and her wealth. Mr. Redmond declared in the Irish House of Commons that Ireland has been taxed under the union beyond the measure of her contributive ability and that the ratio of her contribution must correspond with her wealth and her prosperity and the even in the event of the unification of the two kingdoms which took place in 1901, Ireland was to have a special exemption and abatement and would not be upon to pay more than her fair proportion.

WORK OF COMMISSION
Now the facts are not in dispute and a commission was appointed to inquire into the question of the tax which Ireland has been carrying out in violation of the act of the union. Ireland was being bled to death and remember that it is the poorest of the poor. The population who suffer most because of the tax is the whole of the population. Ireland is being bled to death and remember that it is the poorest of the poor. The population who suffer most because of the tax is the whole of the population."

That is going on more or less since the union. It has been going on since 1801 and the result is that Ireland has paid five hundred millions in overtaxation. Mr. Redmond in his speech gave this as the main reason for the failure of the Irish people to get on their feet. Ireland is being bled to death and remember that it is the poorest of the poor. The population who suffer most because of the tax is the whole of the population. Ireland is being bled to death and remember that it is the poorest of the poor. The population who suffer most because of the tax is the whole of the population."

action of the Irish Parliamentary party suspended, then it is not worth a pinch of salt.

OO AS FATHERS DID
Go on as you did years ago and as your fathers did. Scorn all sacrifices and suffering that may, perhaps be threatened to you by the ruling powers of the day. Why what is a little imprisonment to an Irish Nationalist? My own feeling was that I was never worth my salt until I had slept on a plank bed. Let them see that we are determined, that pending the realization of that hope we will if legislation is not passed, endeavor to use other methods to promote reforms. Let them understand once and for all that if they cannot govern Ireland by methods of freedom they won't be able to govern Ireland at all. Let them understand it is a difficult, unpleasant and a hateful task to endeavor to govern his country against the will of its people.

Mr. Redmond's plan to secure justice for Ireland is to have a pledge bound party in Parliament and a united and powerful movement outside at its back. He feels convinced that when the next general election comes the Liberal party will be able to go to the country in England with a full Home Rule program and if returned to power they will be within measurable distance of obtaining some rights for Ireland.

INJECTION OF SEA WATER CURE FOR MANY DISEASES

The Newest Discovery Made in Science

PARIS, Oct. 19.—Injections of sea water is a new cure for a great variety of diseases which has been invented by Dr. Quinton of Paris, who is making an astonishing number of rapid cures by this method.

The principal of the thing is based on the fact discovered by Dr. Quinton, that there is an analogy between animal blood corpuscles and marine plasma. This he proved by draining every drop from a dog and replacing it with sea water. The dog recovered little the worse for the transfusion.

Dr. Quinton's theory is that all living tissues are like marine animals in which distinct cells live as they do in sea water. In a man's body there are sixty pounds of living cells which are equivalent to the cells found in the same weight of sea water.

The salt water cure is particularly efficacious in curing children of diseases of the skin, infectious and tubercular affections. It is also good for nervous affections like sciatica etc.

Dr. Quinton's clinic is besieged by patients and mothers bringing their children for treatment by the wonderful new method. His staff of four doctors and fifteen nurses are kept busy at ending to the one hundred and fifty patients in the hospital.

Some amusing typical toys are shown at the annual exhibition of cheap French made toys which was established by M. Lepine, the prefect of police, for the encouragement of French industry.

Among the most interesting are an acroplane which when it falls rises again of its own accord, and a submarine which dives ten feet and comes to the surface again. There is also a train which in duces in a very realistic smash and a clockwork figure of a man who has won the largest prize in a lottery.

Caran d'Ache's wooden toys are also on view. He has made a number of them to represent President Fallieres and other prominent Parisians. They are the successes of the exhibition but they are a little outside its proper scope, for they are not cheap.

Nicolas Poussin's famous picture of the 'Deluge' which two months ago at the Louvre was slashed in several places with a knife by a lunatic named Cousin has now been repaired.

The reparation and restoration performed by M. Deniot who has long done this work for the French art galleries has been carried out with such extraordinary care and precision that no trace of the work can now be found and even experts find it difficult to discover that the picture has ever been roughly handled. It has now again been hung in its old place at the Louvre.

'The Man Behind the Pope'---

The Cardinal Merry Del Val

SHOWING THIS NOTED PRINCE OF THE CHURCH AT WORK IN HIS STUDY

POPE NOT SHOWING FAVOR'S TOWARD PRINCE

Bases His Displeasure Up on the Failure of Cardinal Mathieu to Get Audiences.

PARIS, Oct. 19.—Pope Pius X, in spite of the meek of good fellowship and amiability which is the characteristic trait of his countenance, is possessed of an abiding bitterness. He is particularly spiteful against poor President Fallieres who has done nothing to him but is the victim of the republican government. As the Pope cannot show his displeasure in an open and public manner, he does his best to do so in little petty ways. Thus he has just forbidden the famous Cardinal Mathieu who was recently elected a member of the Academy Française to present himself in accordance with the usual custom to the chief of the state. So the great literary body which more than any other is desirous of making no changes in its customs and traditions.

Nicolas Poussin's famous picture of the 'Deluge' which two months ago at the Louvre was slashed in several places with a knife by a lunatic named Cousin has now been repaired.

The reparation and restoration performed by M. Deniot who has long done this work for the French art galleries has been carried out with such extraordinary care and precision that no trace of the work can now be found and even experts find it difficult to discover that the picture has ever been roughly handled. It has now again been hung in its old place at the Louvre.

PRINCESS TO VISIT NORWAY ANNUALLY
LONDON, Oct. 19.—Princess Victoria, whose health recently gave much anxiety to her parents the King and Queen has decided to make a trip to Norway next year. She has been so much benefited from a trip to northern Europe that it had been arranged she should make an annual visit to her sister Queen Maud of Norway. Every summer one of the royal youths will take the princess to Norway where she will remain several weeks.

FORTUNE FOR FRENCH DEBT
PARIS, Oct. 19.—A native French gentleman named Tuchman, who has died in Paris left the following will:

"I, the undersigned Emile Tuchman of independent means leave all my fortune after my death to the French government towards the redemption of the national debt."

It is not yet stated what the amount of M. Tuchman's fortune may run to but the French national debt only totals 1,232,411,802 francs.

is placed in a very embarrassing situation. Every week the Cardinal makes a show of wishing for an audience with President Fallieres but each week also one of the two sponsors who are supposed to accompany him according to the acclimated etiquette finds himself accidentally prevented by some cold in his head or pain in his little finger. It is there really in the folds of the church no better means than this to punish atheistic and impolitic Republicans for their indecorous attitude toward its august head?

GRIEG OWED HIS SUCCESS TO MOTHER'S INFLUENCE

The Story of Comrade Nina, Conspirator

(By LADY HENRY SOMERSET)

LONDON, Oct. 19.—For those on both sides of the Atlantic who love music the world is poorer since the death of Edvard Grieg and his English admirers find an added sting of regret in the knowledge that the master had intended to play and to conduct some of his own music at the Leeds Festival and at Queen's Hall in London next month.

Women will be particularly interested to learn that it was to his mother that Grieg owed his success. He himself wrote to a friend in reference to the early training he had from her. "Oh, too soon I found I had to practice just what was unpleasant. There was no trifling with my mother. If I spent my time in dreaming at the piano I stood of busing myself with the lesson she set me. Had I not inherited her impressive energy as well as her musical capacity I should never in any respect have succeeded in passing from dreams to deeds."

At twelve years of age Grieg had started to make original compositions. He was at this time attending a school at Bergen but apparently did not take very kindly to his work there. One day he carried with him the manuscript of his first work, which was rather large for a pocket. He was told to produce it and after glancing through its pages the schoolmaster bowed his ears for wasting his time pronounced the music rubbish and tore it up. So much for youthful talent and the encouragement it received.

WOULD SHOOT OWN OFFICERS

Some Other Gossip of France's Affairs and Political News of the Great Republic.

(BY MARQUIS DE CASTELLANE)

PARIS, Oct. 19.—The numerous American interested in French affairs will have learned with grief of the above language used at the St. Etienne Congress by the leader of French Socialism, Jean Jaures took occasion to say that should the French army be engaged in any war the first duty of those who sided with him politically would be to turn their arms against their own officers.

This shameful language which could not have been used in any other country without its author being seized and thrown into prison will have and all add his had the most happy results, and is due to his back into their proper focus again the great conservative interest which the republic is entrusted with.

France Is Making Practical Use of Deadly War Balloon In Fighting Moors

At least in the opinion of British officials, it is not to be expected that the French in the Algerian desert will be able to conduct the same kind of military experiments with their balloons leading all other countries of the world in this regard, and they feel that success has crowned their efforts.

When the French attack upon the Moorish camp it decided the captive balloon Dir el Beldi.

General Schell says that the French engineers under the direction of Air Chief de Jennes, made a successful attack upon the Moorish position, and the security of this outpost, and the troops of the enemy.

THE SHIPS WILL AIMED

By triangulations the French determined the distance between the different parts of the enemy's position and the French batteries.

These shells were thrown into the Moorish entrenchments, for hours.

The French artillerymen were very successful in their aim, and the Moorish artillerymen seeing the objects at which they aimed.

It is suggested that the government should co-operate with the various mutual benefit societies receiving from the contributions of candidates for pensions a slowling interest thereon at 3 1/2 per cent.

PAY ONE POUND A YEAR

By commencing at twenty years of age to pay one pound ($3) a year or less than 10 cents a week it is shown that a man might entitle himself to a pension of $1 a week at the age of 65 if only 4 per cent interest is paid on the pension fund. A man would add 72 cents to the pension. At the age of seventy the pensions at the lower and higher rates of interest would be respectively $3.36 and $1.16—that the pension becomes nearly 50 per cent more at 3 1/2 than at 2 1/2.

WOMEN SING FOR TAYLOR

Feminine Politicians Plan to Aid Election of Candidate by Music.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—Feminine politics, flowers, music, election cards and campaign buttons had a merry mix-up this afternoon in New Washington Hall, when a mass meeting of the Woman's Campaign Taylor Club was held, to complete plans whereby fifteen municipal districts shall be thoroughly canvassed for votes between now and election day.

The women have pledged themselves to work for Taylor and Langdon, but their choice of candidates aside from Mayor and District Attorney has no restrictions. They may elect one for whomsoever they individually please.

The executive board includes: Mrs. Lillian Coffin, chairman; Mrs. Arthur Cornwall, secretary; Mrs. J. C. Levy, treasurer; Mrs. Harold L. Seager, auditor; Mrs. A. W. Scott, Mrs. John Adolph Jarmuth, Mrs. Louis Hertz, Mrs. L. A. Haymond, Mrs. Hallie Davidson and Mr. Minora Kibbe.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Lillian Coffin. Reports were received from district chairmen, and there was general discussion of campaign methods best suited to feminine field workers. In several districts the house-to-house canvass will be adopted. Each chairman has twenty active assistants.

CHAIRMAN APPOINTED.

The following have assumed the responsibility of chairmanship:

Richmond, Mrs. J. C. Levy of 1521 Masonic avenue; Sunset, Mrs. Bailey; Ingleside, Mrs. A. W. Scott; Second and Folsom, Mrs. Willits; North Beach, Miss Elizabeth Ashe; South San Francisco, Mrs. E. O. Reiser; Telegraph Hill, Mrs. Cabaniss; Russian Hill, Mrs. Robert Armstrong; Denat, Lobos Square, Mrs. Mary Gamage; Potrero, Dr. Minora Kibbe and Miss Anna Briggs; Mission, Mrs. J. W. Perry of 2298 Market street; Bernal Heights and Fairmont, Mrs. J. P. Tuohy of 319 Chenery street.

Members of the district committees are requested to report as soon as possible to their respective chairmen. District workers will meet hereafter at the residences of their chairmen, subject to call of the latter.

Richmond district will have a meeting this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. J. C. Levy, 1521 Masonic avenue. The headquarters of the executive board until election will be the residence of Mrs. T. A. Stark, 1849 Bush street.

A campaign song written by Miss M. H. Carlin was referred to the printing committee.

WON'T MENTION CALHOUN.

Lively discussion followed the mention of Patrick Calhoun's name in arguments to be used for Langdon's re-election. Several women present favored open warfare against the United Railroads president, while others made speeches reminding Calhoun's adversaries that he was not a personal candidate anyway, and that the club had pledged itself at the outset not to say derogatory things of anybody. So the name of Calhoun was laid on the table.

Mrs. Coffin stated that greetings had been received from every political party in the city, welcoming the women as factors in the campaign for good government.

The suggestion of Mrs. Harold L. Seager that a woman's quartet be formed met with approval.

Mrs. Arthur Cornwall said:

"We want the public to understand that this is not a suffragist movement, nor a movement allied with any political party. We are simply working together systematically for our city's welfare, irrespective of everything else. Many of us are not for suffrage at all, but we are all for San Francisco. We particularly appeal to the women of the working classes to join us in our campaign to elect officials who will give us a clean administration."

LAST MASS MEETING.

The wife declares she is without funds, and the rent for her Haight street home is overdue three months. She says her husband makes $500 to $1000 a month, while her sister asserts he is receiving but $200 a month.

The Very Best of New York's Creators of Tailored Garments Have Representation in

Our Fall-Winter Style Show

A glance at the picture gives an excellent idea of some of the models that have found most favor. Our cloak and suit department differs from most stores. When it was first started, some years ago, it opened a new field of trade. It had to hue its own course, for there was nothing to copy from. The people were demanding something better than the old store methods of conducting a cloak and suit department. We determined that it should be a department of the people and for the people, not of one class only but of all classes. Everybody knows that our methods were successful from the first. This department serves equally well those whose means are limited and those whose limit is the best obtainable.

CAR RIOT ENDS WITH MURDER

GOUROND TO GET $500,000 SETTLEMENT

Divorced Wife To Return Here
Former Amy Crocker to Visit Her Uncle in San Francisco.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Oct. 19.—To receive in cold cash the sum of $500,000 or interest for life upon the sum of $1,000,000, is said to be the fate which has befallen Powers Gourond, a distinguished young Englishman, in consideration for having separated himself, via the divorce courts of South Dakota, from the family of a well known San Francisco multi-millionaire, Gourond, who is widely known as "Chap-pie," is the latest recipient of a South Dakota divorce. The defendant in the action was Gertrude Crocker-Gourond, niece of William H. Crocker, the multi-millionaire of San Francisco. The divorce was granted the young Englishman on the ground of desertion.

The defendant is in a New York hospital and was too ill to make the trip to Sioux Falls to appear in person at the hearing upon her husband's application for divorce, but was represented by an attorney, who cross-examined the plaintiff after he had taken the witness stand and testified in his own behalf.

PAID $500,000.
In execution under the more prominent members of the local divorce colony is an apparently well-founded story to the effect that the young Englishman, in consideration for withdrawing himself from the Crocker family, received the sum of $500,000 from the father of the young woman from whom he now has secured a divorce.

Another story has it that instead of receiving a half million dollars outright, the father of his ex-wife has set aside a sum of $1,000,000, the interest upon which shall go to Gourond during his lifetime. Since last January Gourond has been a resident of Sioux Falls and South Dakota. He is only about 24 years of age. A little over three years ago he was married to Mrs. Crocker, who at the time was only 17 years old. The parents of the girl objected to the marriage, but Gourond and the girl eloped and were married, notwithstanding the opposition. Gourond is a great lover of outdoor sports and since becoming a member of the divorce colony in this city has been the life of the colony. He and several companions early this fall made a long distance au-

ICE KING IS OUSTED

FORCE MORSE OUT OF ALL CONCERNS

Clearing House Committee Acts

Noted Group of Plungers Compelled to Quit Business.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Chas. W. Morse, the former ice king, tonight resigned from every bank and trust company with which he has been connected.

It was learned on the highest authority that his resignation had been forced by the Clearing House Committee, members of which were busy up to a late hour tonight on the books of the National Bank of North America and the New Amsterdam Bank, as well as on those of other financial establishments with which Morse was associated. Not only is Mr. Morse retiring from the banking world in which he has cut a sensational figure recently, but he will take with him out of that particular sphere of high finance several of the young men whose means have been linked with his and others whose methods have been somewhat like his own.

AGAINST PLUNGERS
One of these financiers was expected to resign from the banks, but his absence from the city made this a physical impossibility. The Clearing House decided to eliminate this entire group of plungers, believing that now is a safe time when the stock market is at such a level that it cannot be seriously hurt. President Curtis of the Bank of North America, Mr. Morse's particular institution, and which the leeman bought from the Van Norden interests, reluctantly admitted that Morse has severed his connection with that institution. Beyond that, having in addition to his business troubles to bear the burden of worry over his child dying in his house would not talk.

The career of Charles W. Morse has been like that of many others in Wall Street. His start in life was that of the money-maker. He was born in Bath, Me., fifty-one years ago, and made his first thousand dollars while in college. Morse securities went tumbling in the market today. Bonds of the Consolidated Steamship Company, which is a monopoly of coast line steamers, recently organized by Mr. Morse, were thrown on the market in heavy volume and sold at 17, which is a low record. The price of these bonds was a mystery until it was reported by an intimate friend of Mr. Morse's that the Consolidated fleet would within a few days be taken over by the New Haven Company.

J. P. Morgan is understood to be behind this deal in high finance. Mr. Morse recently offered $200 a share for the steamers that ply on Long Island Sound. The offer was refused, but Mr. Morgan has decided that Morse's idea is

Police Chief Orders Women of Tenderloin From Theaters

Numerous complaints received at police headquarters lately from patrons of the Macdonough, Ye Liberty, Orpheum and Columbia theaters in regard to the attendance of an undesirable class of women at many of the performances has led to the issuance of an order by Chief of Police Wilson forbidding the women inmates of the tenderloin resorts to visit any of the above named theaters.

Chief Wilson says that he specified the four theaters because all of the complaints he has received refer to them.

CHIEF WILSON.

The order has been communicated to the proprietors of all houses in the red light district by the policemen stationed there.

SHAW LEADS PLAYWRIGHTS' FIGHT AGAINST CENSOR

Says Stage Should Handle Sex Problems

LONDON, Oct. 19.—London's playwrights, headed by George Bernard Shaw, have united in an effort to compel the abolition of dramatic censorship. The censor recently showed a disposition to suppress plays dealing with sex problems, like "Mrs. Warren's Profession." The censor this week prohibited a play that was ready for production at the Savoy theater on the ground that it was immoral. George Bernard Shaw tonight said:

"The question has become serious. It isn't merely this Savoy play. It is impossible to go on if every single attempt to get better and more serious treatment of sex questions on the stage is stopped by the censor. "The interest in sex questions is very strong in the theater, but proper presentation is impossible so long as the censor holds his present views. You are supported by him so long as you deal with the sex question in what is obviously called a 'gay manner' while he stops every effort to get the sex question decently and seriously handled. I have the strongest feeling against Mr. Redford personally as censor. I consider he has grossly insulted me and a number of my literary conferees. I know he cannot help it. I always made my objection to the censorship an impersonal matter but when I see it suggested that we have the highest respect for Redford it is true for me to say I have no respect for him as censor."

Victoria's Letters In Book Prepared by King Edward

Declares Women Unfit to Rule Over Nation

(SPECIAL WIREGRAM BY MARCONI WIRELESS.)

LONDON, Oct. 19, via Glace Bay, N. S., Oct. 19.—The publication of Queen Victoria's letters in book form is the greatest literary event of the past fifty years. The letters show all the strength and weakness of a woman's nature; her likes and dislikes are clearly revealed, and her devotion to England is shown on every page—a devotion that is only surpassed by her intense, passionate love for Prince Albert. The queen's confidence in Lord Melbourne is again reiterated. Probably it was the premier's suavity that impressed the queen's girlish mind. After the coronation she is recorded as having written to Lord Melbourne as follows:

"You did it beautifully; every part with so much taste. It is a thing you cannot give a person advice upon it must be left to a person."

LOVED QUIET LIFE.

The queen held duty to be her first aim, yet she greatly preferred the

THE TRIBUNE prints today the first actual news story ever transmitted across the Atlantic by wireless. This is the first instance where any newspaper in the world has made use of the Marconi system as a substitute for the European cable.

quiet of country life to public appearance. She wrote in 1852:

"The importance of everything going on at home and abroad is unexampled in my recollection and very trying. I am every day more convinced that we women, if we are to be good women—feminine, amiable and domestic—are not fitted to reign."

In this spirit the queen exhibited the passionate determination to realize her ideals of sovereignty. She insisted upon being consulted in the

FALLS TO HIS DEATH FROM CHURCH TOP

Painters Try to Save Comrade

Men Forced to Suspend Work After Terrible Disaster.

NEWARK, Cal., Oct. 19.—A wavering form silhouetted against the evening sky—an inarticulate cry of despair—a human body hurtling, speeding toward the earth—a groan and a sigh.

These were the sights and sounds which spelled death in letters of agony to Charles Meyers, a Swiss steeple jack at St. Edward's Church late this afternoon. The unfortunate man, who was a member of San Francisco Painters' Union No. 19 was engaged in the recoating of St. Edward's steeple being suspended in a rope swing 60 feet above the ground. It is presumed that he was seized with an attack of vertigo or dizziness and lost his balance. The first intimation to his associates below him was the thud of Meyer's paint bucket on their scaffold. Two men sprang up the steeple's side to aid their comrade but before they could reach out a saving arm Meyers toppled from his seat and fell.

FELL TO DEATH
DOWN—DOWN—DOWN, striking the lower scaffold, then the coping of the church roof, and finally the ground—a shapeless gruesome, bleeding mass. Horrified witnesses rushed to his side, but Meyers was mercifully dead. Tenderly the inanimate form was carried to a nearby house and a sheet dropped.

ONE DEAD SEVEN HURT

Angry Carmen Resort To Their Guns

PASSENGERS IN A PANIC

Seattle Heiress Shot in Head; Angry Crowd Threaten to Lynch Shooters.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—The dead: CHARLES MOSS, hodcarrier, 4158 Twenty-fifth street. The injured: MISS MAY HASLEY of Seattle; shot in right hand. OTTO P. EBERWEIN, striking carman; shot through jaw and neck; will die.

BERNARD GOLDSTEIN, millman, 806 Elizabeth street; shot in left thigh.

JOHN MONGER, carpenter, 4158 Twenty-fifth street; shot in left hand.

JOSEPH STEFFENS, cabinetmaker, 2528 Geary street; injured by flying splinters.

C. B. BROWN, strike-breaker conductor; lacerations of scalp.

E. A. PURCELL, strike-breaking motorman; severely bruised and cut.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—In a fatal riot on a south-bound Polk and Larkin street car at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon, while women screamed in terror and men threw themselves through the windows in a panic of fear, one man met death and six men and one woman, an heiress, received serious or painful injuries.

Motorman and conductor, infuriated at the mob, drew revolvers and fired into the crowded car, every bullet finding a human mark.

The fear-stricken passengers burst from the death-ridden car, leaving its injured crew to protect on their way.

The two carmen are in jail facing murder charges.

The riot began through trouble over a transfer. John Monger, a carpenter living at 4158 Twenty-fifth street, asked for a transfer when Conductor C. B. Brown collected his fare. Brown, it is said, paid no attention to the request and proceeded through the car collecting fares.

At Sutter street Monger again asked for a transfer, saying: "I want a transfer, and if I don't get it I'll know why."

HOW TRAVEL

Brown resented the demand and high words ensued. Suddenly the conductor shot out his fist, striking Monger on the jaw, and a number of men sprang to the injured passenger's assistance.

Just then some one pulled the trolley off the wire, leaving the car in semi-darkness.

Brown drew his revolver, pushed its muzzle against the crowd and began to shoot.

A rush toward him was beaten back by bullets. Then the pas-

LOST BROTHER FOUND IN JAIL

Woman Travels From London Here to Seek Her Relative.

REDDING, Oct. 19.—Mrs. A. S. Charlton of London, accompanied by her husband an officer in the British navy, arrived here this morning on a search for Thomas D. (Tass) a brother whom Mrs. Charlton had not seen for seventeen years.

She found Cassy in the county jail, doing his third term since July for vagrancy. She first heard of his whereabouts through a letter written by him to relatives in Nova Scotia. He asked them that mail be sent to Redding in care of George Albright, the jailer. Cassy will have to serve his sixty days sentence, for there is no alternative of a fine.

ARM BLEEDING BUT WILL NOT ACCUSE

Excitement was caused in the neighborhood of Mission and Sixteenth streets early Friday evening when a woman shouted that a man who was fleeing down the street had attacked her. She displayed a bleeding arm, where, she said, the man had seized her.

To Policeman W. G. Meagher the woman refused to make any statement, to give her name or to prefer a charge against the prisoner. Fred Lawrence, the man under arrest, said he had a quarrel with the woman, but denied attacking her.

Lawrence was later released.

NINE BURIED UNDER UPSET AUTO; ALL ARE BADLY HURT

SANTA ROSA, Oct. 19.—Nine persons were seriously injured on the outskirts of Santa Rosa tonight when the big Thomas flyer in which they were speeding from the Talmage home to that city overturned.

The accident was caused by defective steering gear and all nine persons were buried under the machine.

Wasserman and Murray are believed to be fatally injured.

Word of the accident reached here by telephone and four physicians left to care for the injured.

GIRL HELD PRISONER BY KIDNAPERS THREE WEEKS

SEATTLE, Oct. 19.—A story of kidnapping one so remarkably strange and unusual in the brazen boldness of the operators—an unknown and five men—was laid bare to the Seattle police tonight by the victim, Miss Tillie Nordheim, the pretty 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Nordheim, highly respectable residents of Tacoma.

Having escaped to this city from her rooming place, Miss Nordheim told the police. Three weeks ago, Miss Nordheim mysteriously disappeared from the Nordheim home in South Tacoma, and since that time the parents through enlisting the aid of the Tacoma police and the department of of other cities throughout the Northwest, have been unable to get any trace of her until she returned home this afternoon.

The girl claims she was abducted in an automobile, and for two days was held in a room in the Tacoma hotel.

She says she was taken to Bellingham, from Bellingham the party came to Seattle and took lodgings in the Detroit, a hotel in the lower portion of the city. Here the girl asserts that she was held a prisoner for five or six days and was then forced to work at the Saxony Knit Goods establishment, 81 Moran street. Today she walked out of the place without mole-

JEALOUS MAN KILLS BRIDE

Turns Weapon on Self and Dies in a Few Hours.

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 19.—In a rage of jealousy, John Schwab, a young Slavonian of Redding, yesterday evening shot and instantly killed his young wife, and then turned the weapon upon himself, with the result that he also died a few hours later. The young couple had only been married two months, and report has it that the husband was insanely jealous of his young bride.

POLICEMEN INJURED

IN FALL FROM HORSE

While attempting to ride a new saddle horse yesterday, a day ago by the police department at Puyallup, G. G. Mulholland was bucked from the saddle and severely injured by being struck in the groin by the animal as he fell. Mulholland was picked up by bystanders and a hurry call was sent in to police headquarters for assistance.

Captain Rock and Sergeant Mulgrew responded and took Mulholland in the department automobile to the Redding Hospital, where his wound was dressed. The accident occurred at the corner of Twenty-second street and Broadway shortly before midnight.

CAR RIOT LEADS TO DEATH OF ONE AND THE INJURY OF MANY

engers began a wild struggle to escape from the car. They found themselves in a deadly cross-fire, for at the sound of the shots Motorman E. A. Purcell threw open the front door of the car and began firing into the surging mass within. With death at either exit, men and women, frantic from fear, plunged through the glass, to fall upon the stones below. One woman, with a baby in her arms, cast herself through the heavy glass.

MAD RUSH.

Men trampled each other in a rush for safety. Sidewalks and street corners were crowded with the usual throng of workers returning to their homes. The fear and excitement of the escaping passengers was communicated to them and in an instant the street was in an uproar.

At the first shot fired by Brown, Monger, who had begun the altercation, was shot through the left hand, the bullet shattering the bones.

Charles Moss, who lived with Monger, rushed to his comrade's assistance, and was shot in the left side, the bullet piercing his lungs. He turned to run and was shot through the abdomen. The wounded man staggered out of the car and half across the street. Then he fell to the ground. A few minutes later he was dead.

Otto P. Eberwein, a striking carman, was shot through the jaw, the bullet lodging in his neck. Eberwein's jaw was torn off and he fell.

Heiress Shot in Hand

Miss May Hasley, who was shot through the right hand while holding onto a strap, is a Seattle heiress and is reputed to be worth $500,000. She had just returned from the Orpheum with George S. Whiting, with whom she is associated in developing the Annie Eldridge copper mine at Silver Peak, Battle Mountain, and Frank Roberts, superintendent of the mine. They were on their way to the Old Poodle Dog for dinner when the shooting took place.

Mad Rush for Safety

Roberts remained on the car throughout the excitement, taking a revolver from one passenger who tried to shoot the motorman and assisting the police in caring for the wounded. He claims that the conductor and motorman shot indiscriminately into the car.

Bernard Goldstein, of 806 Elizabeth street, was shot in the left thigh as he was jumping off the car.

Joseph Steffens, of 2428 Geary street, was escaping through a window when a bullet struck the window frame, throwing splinters into his eyes.

Policeman John P. Collins rushed to the scene and forced the trampling carmen to take the car—No. 1575—from the scene of the trouble.

Police Take Charge

Carrying the crew, Collins and the unconscious Eberwein, the car was run as far as Golden Gate avenue, where Eberwein was taken off.

A passing automobile belonging to William J. Pedlar, of 441

Golden Gate avenue, was pressed into service and the wounded man was hurried to the Central Emergency Hospital, the conductor and policeman accompanying him in the machine.

Herr Manuel Started

When the automobile started the motorman put on the power and the car started, but Policeman Collins in an automobile ran the trolley down and took the motorman into custody.

Both Brown and Purcell, the car crew, were treated for the bruises they had received and then were imprisoned at the Central Police Station on a charge of murder.

The other injured men were treated at the Central Emergency Hospital. Moss' body was taken to the morgue.

(BY FRANK ROBERTS, Superintendent of the Annie Eldridge Copper Mine.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—I was at the Orpheum with Miss Hasley and Mr. Whiting. We intended to take dinner at the Old Poodle Dog restaurant and boarded the Sutter street car at Sutter and Fillmore streets, getting transfers to the Polk street line. I was smoking at the time and stood on the front platform after we got on the Polk street car.

Monger boarded the Sutter street car at Octavia street and stood at my side on the platform. He paid his fare at the same time I did and the conductor gave him a transfer. This transfer, it developed, was punched 3:30 instead of 5:30, and the conductor of the Polk street car refused to take it, claiming that the time of which it was good was passed.

WOULD FORCE HIM OFF.

Monger said he had just got the transfer from the conductor of the Sutter street car, and that he did not propose to pay another fare. The conductor then tried to force him off the car.

Monger resisted this and struck at the conductor.

At that the motorman pulled his gun, and pointing it at Monger fired. Monger retreated into the car and the motorman kept on firing, the conductor meanwhile drawing his revolver and joining in.

Both sent their shots into the heart of the car. It was a most criminal and outrageous performance. The car was crowded with passengers.

At least 150 passengers were either seated or standing, and the shots struck them indiscriminately.

Miss Hasley was standing about four or five feet from the door, holding on to a strap. One of the shots tore through the glove of her right hand. She screamed and swooned. Mr. Whiting picked her up, forced his way through the crowd and left the car. He then called a coupe and had Miss Hasley removed to a private sanitarium for medical attendance.

I remained on the car. A man standing close by me was shot through the jaw, his mouth being stained with powder marks.

The man shot in the abdomen, who I understand has since died, dragged himself off the car and then collapsed on the pavement. In all, eight shots were fired by the motorman and conductor, and while the shooting was in progress there was indescribable confusion in the car, women screaming and men struggling with one another to reach the street.

WOULD KILL MOTORMAN. One man jumped through a window and another drew a revolver. He dropped it and I picked it up. I had to wrestle with him to retain it. This man would certainly have killed the motorman if he had not dropped the gun.

After the policeman boarded the car more men flashed guns in the street. Both the motorman and conductor received a bad mauling after their weapons were taken from them and they were covered with blood.

Someone had by this time taken the trolley pole of the car, which was standing still about fifty feet below Sutter street.

After the passengers had fled from the car the motorman started it again. The man shot in the jaw was lying on the floor of the car bleeding, and I boarded the back platform with Policeman Collins.

The car went as far as Golden Gate avenue. The gates had been locked by the conductor and no one was allowed to board it. At Golden Gate avenue we took the man shot in the mouth off the car and put him in an automobile and took him to the Central Emergency Hospital.

We were no sooner off the car than the motorman started it down the hill in the direction of Market street.

I shouted to Policeman Collins and he came back and jumped into the automobile of a young man who happened to be passing at the time. Collins caught up with the car at Market street and then placed the motorman and conductor under arrest.

STUYVESANT FISH HAS A MAJORITY OF PROXIES NOW

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—When the proxy committee appointed by the contending forces for the control of the Illinois Central railroad closed its count tonight, Stuyvesant Fish had a majority of 40,000 proxies exclusive of those enjoined by Judge Ball.

Inasmuch as eighty per cent of the vote has been counted, and only the letters T, U, W, X, Y and G are to be counted, the indications point to a Fish victory in this preliminary skirmish for the control of the Illinois Central railroad.

It is possible that the Harriman forces may throw in enough of the proxies at the last hour to overcome the lead Mr. Fish has, but the chances are against any such contingency.

It was conceded tonight by a member of the Harriman forces, who is acquainted with every detail of the situation, that Mr. Fish would win in this encounter, but the statement was denied that Mr. Harriman would ultimately win, because of the fact that he hoped to have the enjoinder of Judge Ball on the 285,731 shares removed, and that would be a majority too great to be overcome.

TO TEST COURTS.

Edward H. Harriman today went to New York. Before he left he made it plain that he intended to test both courts the question as to whether or not one corporation might vote stock in another in Illinois.

Mr. Harriman called attention to the fact that Stuyvesant Fish represented some 100,000 or 125,000 shares which would be morally open to the same attack that Mr. Fish made upon the shares of stock held by the Union Pacific, the Mutual Life of New York and the Railroad Securities Company.

Judge Farrar, counsel for Mr. Fish, replying to this contention of Mr. Harriman, said:

"At the present time there is absolutely no chance for us to lose unless something is done that is the work of the trickster and crook."

"Regarding the case now in enjoiner, I feel that Mr. Fish will win out. Let me be clearly understood. Our contention is that Mr. Harriman, who is president and director of the Union Pacific corporations, outside of that enjoined,

IT IS WAR TO THE KNIFE AS FAR AS MR. FISH IS CONCERNED. THE INSINUATION THAT HE IS HARD UP MADE BY PRESIDENT HARRIMAN OF ILLINOIS CENTRAL BROUGHT FORTH THIS REPLY FROM MR. FISH: "I HAVE MORE MONEY TO SPEND THAN EVER."

MR. PEABODY IS SUPPOSED TO BE THE INSURANCE OFFICIAL WHO STARTED THE DEMAND UPON MR. FISH FOR THE QUICK REPAYMENT OF THE ILLINOIS CENTRAL LOAN.

the total number of shares is 25,024. Of this amount Mr. Fish holds proxies for 578, and it is supposed that Mr. Harriman holds the balance of the proxies, amounting to 14,946. If Mr. Harriman's attorney's intent to have their vote cast out on the grounds that it ought to be because the 285,731 votes have been enjoined, and if he is successful, then he will be the net loser by over 6000 votes, in addition to laying himself open to the charge of preventing stockholders from voting.

OFFERS A PRECEDENT.

"We feel that if the Northern Securities case offers a precedent that Mr. Harriman's attorneys cannot get the enjoined vote counted in an election of Illinois Central directors. Our contention is that Mr. Harriman, who is president and director of the Union Pacific corporations, outside of that enjoined, lent per cent of the stock of the Illinois Central and the same man controls a large percentage of stock in the Chicago & Alton, Chicago & Northwestern and Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroads, all of which are parallel and competing lines in many instances to the Illinois Central, and which is against the ruling of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Supreme Court of the United States and the law of the state of Illinois.

"But we believe that with this fight of the 15th of December will be won without the necessity of continuing the enjoiner upon the stock now set aside for the decision of the courts. When the people realize that single-handed, Mr. Fish took up the fight because the proxies began pouring in upon him after the Harriman forces had prepared for this election, and won the battle, they will revoke the proxies that they have given to Mr. Harriman and give them to Mr. Fish."

HIDES FACE WHEN FOUND WITH ANOTHER'S HUSBAND

Judge Lorigan on Hunt at Dawn for Son-in-law Discovers Him With Affinity.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—

Supreme Judge Lorigan, accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Jesse Galland, at an early hour this morning entered a room in the apartment house at 680 Waller street and identified his son-in-law, Benjamin A. Healey, so that papers could be served in the suit for divorce instituted by Mrs. Healey.

While Healey, pale and trembling, was forced to listen to recital of the charges against him, his affinity, Miss Mabel Benjamin, named in the complaint, crouched in the room, her features hidden by a black silk handkerchief.

When the legal procedure was ended and Healey had been summoned to answer in court the accusations of his wife, Judge Lorigan strode to Miss Benjamin, pulled the handkerchief away and gazed upon the face of the woman who had supplanted his daughter in the affections of her husband.

Then the eminent jurist turned to the deputy, nodded that he was ready, and the two went out.

THREATEN TO BREAK DOOR. Entrance was not effected to the room where Healey and Miss Benjamin were until it was threatened the door would be broken down unless unlocked.

Judge Lorigan and Deputy Sheriff Galland went to the entrance of the Waller street house before any of its inmates had risen. Quietly they waited outside until the first lodger leaving the building gave them opportunity to enter without unusual comment.

Having located the room occupied by Healey, they demanded admittance, but this was refused them, the voice of a woman protesting that Healey was not there. Then it was that a threat to break down the door was made. This brought results.

The key turned in the lock, the door swung back and Healey and his father-in-law were face to face.

The accused husband gasped. "THAT IS THE MAN!"

"That is the man!" said Judge Lorigan, contempt in his tone and scorn in his eyes.

The deputy read the summons. Mrs. Benjamin A. Healey, who asks the divorce, was wedded to the man from whom she now seeks legal separation four years ago. In addition to divorce she asks alimony and that her husband be restrained from disposing of a considerable estate left him by the death of his father, the late Benjamin Healey, a well-known business man.

Mabel Benjamin, who is named in the suit as Healey's affinity, is a striking brunette, about 22 years old, who until recently was employed as bookkeeper for a local business house.

Mrs. Healey charges neglect on the part of her husband, and it was because of the alleged treatment of his daughter and to insure identification of his son-in-law, so that everything would be in regular legal form, that Judge Lorigan accompanied the deputy in the early morning raid upon Healey's apartments.

FIND BODY OF WOMAN IN BAY

Bears no Marks of Any Violence or Foul Play.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—Mystery surrounds the identity of an unknown woman found drifting in the bay by Frank Forges, a sailor, while he was loitering on the string-piece of the Forges street wharf.

The body was clothed in an open work shirt waist and checkered skirt. The shoes were nearly new. A tortoise shell comb was in the hair. The woman had dark brown eyes and was pretty. Her age was about 22 years. The body had evidently been in the water about five days.

John McPaul, sailor, claims to have heard a group of men from a ship talking about seeing the girl jump from a wharf early last Sunday morning. She fell upon seeking the water, but all was silent when the men got to the wharf. She did not appear again, and they continued on their way to their ship.

There are no marks of violence on the body and the police do not believe the girl was a victim of foul play.

CITY ANSWERS

JAPANESE SUIT

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—City Attorney Burke has answered the complaint filed by Y. Elimoto against the city for damages claimed as the result of a riot on Fulton street last May in which Elimoto's bathhouse and Mr. Nakashima's restaurant were wrecked. The city's defense will be that the riot and resulting damage were caused by the negligence of the Japanese. Another point set up in the answer is that the city was not notified that a riot was in progress.

Elimoto, for himself and Nakashima, sued for $25,000 damages. Recently Judge Sewall ordered portions of the complaint struck out, holding that the Japanese could not ask for damages for future profits and loss of good will. This ruling reduced the action to a suit for $25,000.

City Attorney Burke denies this amount of damages and says it could not possibly have reached a sum greater than $10,000.

WARSHIP MISSISSIPPI MAKES GOOD TRIAL

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19.—The battleship Mississippi returned to Cramps shipyard here today after a successful trip off the Delaware Capes, conducted by the United States Board of Inspection and Survey. The vessel's average speed was 17.11 knots per hour for four hours, full power and for twenty-four hours endurance trial 15.13 knots. The battleship contract speed called for 17 knots an hour.

COMMANDER'S AFFINITY IS DISHWASHER

Friend of President Now Sued for Divorce by Beautiful Young Wife.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—A petition for absolute divorce has been filed in the Supreme Court by Mrs. Alleta Thompson Benton, the famous Southern beauty, against Lieutenant Commander Frederick L. Benton, friend of President Roosevelt. Benton was formerly attached to the Brooklyn naval hospital and is one of the most popular men in the naval surgery corps.

A dishwasher is named. She is Annie Grady. The indiscretions are alleged to have occurred on or about Jan. 2, 1906, a few months after the wedding.

The petition does not reveal that Annie Grady was a dishwasher and waitress at the Brooklyn naval hospital, while Lieutenant Commander Benton was stationed there, but Dr. Stuart H. Benton of Brooklyn, father of the defendant, says the young woman named is the dishwasher.

WOMAN MAY DIE OF BURNS

While attempting to extinguish a fire caused by the explosion of a coal oil heater in the kitchen of her home at 863½ Twentieth street last evening, Mrs. S. J. Tompkins received burns which will probably prove fatal. The injured woman was taken to the Providence Hospital where, at a late hour last night, her condition was pronounced critical.

Shortly after half-past eight o'clock Mrs. Tompkins started to light the heater and the explosion followed. The burning oil ignited the kitchen floor, and while Mrs. Tompkins, who was alone in the house, was attempting to stamp out the blaze, her clothing caught fire, and in an instant she was enveloped in flames. Frantic with pain and fright she rushed into the yard and screamed for assistance. Miss Rae McKay, a trained nurse, who was attending a patient in a house adjoining the Tompkins residence on the rear, heard the woman's cries, and, scaling the fence which separated the two yards, hastened to her aid. In imminent peril of her own life she rolled her on the ground and succeeded in putting out the flames. As quickly as possible physicians were

ACTOR TRAPS BLACKMAILERS

Man Captured Puts Up Fierce Fight in the Green Room.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Raymond Hitchcock, the comedian, died in tonight on the band of men who have been trying to get money from him and caused the arrest in his dressing-room in the Astor Theater of Hugo J. Voeks, who was taken to police headquarters, where he was charged with blackmail.

Later Frank Thornberg was arrested, charged with acting in concert with Voeks. The arrest in Hitchcock's dressing-room was a sensational affair. Voeks having just received $1000 in bills and a note for $1500 from Hitchcock when the detectives, concealed in the room, pounced upon him.

Voeks put up a fierce fight before he was subdued, and almost wrecked the dressing-room.

ed over it. The other painters, descending from their giddy perch, aided in the removal of the dead steepleman. Their hands trembled and their faces were white, thinking of his terrible fate. They were unable to remount to the scaffold and it was finally decided to stop work for the day. Meyers is said to be unmarried and his remains will be cared for by the Painters' Union.

BUTLER ROBS EMPLOYER.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—The police today received word that a check that was cashed by Hans Vonchendorf, the nobelman-butler, whose disappearance occurred three days ago, was bogus and the Lillenthal family of 1801 Gough street are out $300.

Mrs. S. Lillenthal, who reported the disappearance of her servant to the police a few days ago, failed to state that the butler had induced her son to cash a check for $300 before his departure.

Inquiry regarding the check, which was on an Eastern bank, was made by telegraph and the result was that the paper was found to be bogus.

called in and when the gravity of her injuries was ascertained she was removed to the hospital. Her entire body was covered with blisters and it was necessary to swathe her in bandages from head to foot.

Mrs. Tompkins, who had but recently moved into the house when the accident occurred, is a widow. Her son, Elton F. Tompkins, is a reporter for the Oakland office of the San Francisco Call, and she has a young daughter, but both of her children were away from home last evening. The prompt arrival of the fire department prevented serious injury to the house.

STUDENTS FIGHT WITH POLICE

Sergeant Wood Has Hard Task in Arresting Harry Knox.

The nonchalant air with which university students have been doing about as they pleased did not with a rude shock last evening when Police Sergeant Wood arrested Harry Knox, said to be one of the "variously football squad."

Knox conceived the unique idea of demolishing the street car schedule by standing in front of the westbound telegraph line and during the motorman to go ahead. Sergeant Wood, who happened to be riding at the front end of the car, snatched the would-be bandit from the rails. Knox broke into a storm of vile epithets and abuse, which resulted in his arrest.

As Wood was escorting in a young man to jail he was set upon by a roistering crowd of students bent upon freeing their classmate. Among them he is said to have recognized a son of Superior Judge Harris. But the sergeant was in no mood for pleasantry and a few stout blows dispersed the hoodlums.

Knox put up $10 for his appearance next Monday. The other boys were not captured.

LANGDON AND BRYAN SPEAK

District Attorney Talks of "Square Deal" and Asks Support of Public

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—Ryan and Langdon held two week-end meetings tonight—one at Berisch's hall, Pacific and Stockton streets, and the other at DuBois hall, 405 DuBois avenue. Nearly all the nonunion men of the Republican ticket addressed both meetings.

Langdon declared that he was going to send Patrick Calhoun to the penitentiary. Ryan criticized the Southern Pacific and the Republican newspapers which are opposing him and supporting Taylor.

It was asserted by Ryan that he and his fellow workers had wrested the local Republican organization from Southern Pacific control and had brought the party into a "cleaner field of politics."

Ryan quoted from a Republican paper an editorial statement that Ryan would make an admirable Mayor. That statement, said Ryan, was printed before he had accepted the Republican nomination. Now, he declared, both of the Republican morning newspapers are berating him and seeking to prevent his election. They are doing this, he said, because he would not do their bidding, but instead had insisted upon standing for the interests of the whole people.

TAYLOR CAMPAIGN. Regarding the Taylor campaign, Ryan "The sentiment so often expressed in this campaign that we are entirely dependent upon the East for capital is not founded upon facts. As a matter

LOOKING FOR FIGHT WITH MEMSIC

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19.—Manager Tom McCarey of the Pacific Athletic Club received a telegram tonight from Young Donohue of Boston in which the latter accepts the offer to fight George Memsic in this city on either November 12 or November 13. Donohue adds that he will start for Los Angeles soon in company with Jimmy Walsh, the bantamweight champion. He also asks for a match for Sam Lynford with Young Peter Jackson.

SCHOOLS OVERCROWDED AND TRUSTEES DESPAIR

FRUITVALE, Oct. 19.—Signs of the times point to remarkable conditions existing here.

The school trustees are confronted with the problem of making room for the many children who are applying for admission into the public schools. The trustees declare that the school on Fruitvale avenue is too small and that the Upper Fruitvale school to which an addition of four rooms was recently added, is now congested to its capacity. They have suggested a special bond issue for the building of a new school.

A Little Beauty

Corner Eighteenth and Telegraph Avenue is Sure to Become Popular.

The most precious articles are done up in small packages to the old and new. This is particularly true of the new store just opened by Lee's English Inn Inc. on the corner of Eighteenth and Telegraph avenue.

This new store is a perfect gem and cannot be called by any name. The fixtures alone cost $1000, are of the old English design, which give it the same unique and distinctive appearance of the main store on Thirtieth street.

The popularity of the confections manufactured by that corner is attested by the fact that this is their third store in Oakland. The main store and factory is located at 455 1/2 Twelfth and branches at 458 Seventh street and 401 Telegraph avenue. An expert mixologist from Gunther & Co. of Chicago has been engaged to superintend the soda fountain in their three stores, thus securing for their patrons the best and most appetizing drinks.

TAYLORITES AROUSE ENMITY OF POLICEMEN

Three Candidates for Mayor's Office Seeking to Make Friends With Public School Teachers.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—Local politicians are agog over a ludicrous blunder which the directing spirits of the Good Government League have committed in their effort to untie the knot they have made in their relations with the police. Instead of bringing peace to the quarrel, interests the league have made the now immeasurably more bitter and each step in the controversy is costing Dr. Taylor more votes.

When the new Police Commission was installed and Biggy was elevated to the position of Chief of Police the crusade upon the saloons and dives was commenced at once. Raids, big and little, were instituted and the saloonmen raised a howl that was heard wherever votes were to be obtained. Every place where liquor is sold was scrutinized, licenses were held up and a reign of terror began for the liquor men who saw security for their affairs disappearing.

TAMPERING WITH LID
Influences were exerted at once to stop the attack and the Taylorites saw the wisdom of going more slowly. To the saloon people they announced that no more drastic measures were to be taken. As a matter of fact they never were intended. It was all due to the mistaken enthusiasm of the Police Commission and the hysteria of the Chief of Police. To the opponents of the saloons, who wish to see them subjected at least to a measure of regulation the Taylorites counseled patience until after election when the lid will be put on with a vengeance.

This would all have been very well if the Taylorites had not gone too far in their efforts to placate a powerful vote-getting influence. They declared their purpose to protect the saloon men from the alleged blackmailing tendencies of the police. The league announced that they understood thoroughly to what ends the police force had gone under Dr. Taylor's terrorism over the liquor dealers.

It was represented that a gigantic system of blackmail was practiced by the entire department from patrolmen up to heads of departments. Every saloon man in town was pictured as the victim of caprice and greed and the whole thing was to be stopped.

STORM BREAKS.
These accusations were not long in being carried to the ears of the police and then the storm broke. Nothing that the Taylorites may do or promise will now placate the police. They are against the Taylor ticket to a man and they are doing everything at their command to carry the Fire Department with them. The Taylorites recognize this serious condition of affairs and their misguided organs are resorting to open threats of ways be relied upon to do the wrong thing at the right time, but the evening booster is aggressively stupid in and out of season. It has a consistent record of being on the losing end of every political struggle and its support in this campaign is one of those disadvantages the practical political workers would give a good deal to remove.

SEEK SCHOOL VOTE.
It is interesting that all parties, McCarthyites, Ryanites, and Taylorites are now quietly but persistently directing their attention to the School Department. The school teachers don't vote because most of them can't, but they control a very great number of votes at election. They are splendid missionaries for their friends and favorites as Langdon has discovered to his pronounced advantage.

At this time of the year the teachers are always popular. Everybody is promising them everything and as usual everybody will keep his word. Salaries are to be increased, conditions are to be improved and everything is to be lovely. As yet there is nothing definite to indicate for whom the teachers will be arrayed, but some signs point toward McCarthy as the favorite one.

Experience has demonstrated that the worthy gentlemen who are active in an advocacy of Taylor have in the past been affairs highly disagreeable for the schoolmen under cover of the glorious banner of reform. The teachers look unkindly to the experience and don't want any more of it. They are emphatically their own masters and in the out of the school board and the Taylor outfit looks suspicious to them. When ever receives their support they count on one of the large class votes of the city.

GETS PACKAGE; THEN EXPIRES

Mystery Surrounds Death of 19-Year-Old Girl in Oregon Home.

ROSEBURG, Ore., Oct. 19.—After getting a small package in the mail from Roseburg, Thursday morning, the contents of which were not seen by other members of the family, Miss Maude Davis, aged 19, of Wilbur, died at her home about 11 o'clock that night, under circumstances pointing to poison.

Miss Davis appeared in her usual health all day and was suddenly violently ill at 10 o'clock Thursday night. She had just come back to the house after being absent from it a few minutes. She fell to the floor in spasms and expired in an hour. No reason can be given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Davis.

NAVAL HEROIS LAD TO REST

Emil Bluck of Yoeman Fame Escorted to Crematory by Brother Elks.

Emil A. Bluck, a former yeoman of the navy, whose death occurred on October 15, at his home 1132 Santa Fe avenue, was buried on Thursday afternoon. His funeral was conducted by Oakland Lodge 171, Benevolent Order of Elks, of which he was a prominent member. The funeral cortege why their daughter should wish to destroy herself, and if she did take the poison intentionally it must have been done while she was absent from the residence as no vial of any kind was found in the house. Dr. E. V. Hoover, in company with Coroner Hammett left today to make an examination for traces of poison.

lege left the house at 3 o'clock, proceeding to Elks' Hall, where the burial services were read by Dr. Charles L. Tidale, exalted ruler of the order.

A large number of Elks and shipmates of Bluck journeyed to the Oakland crematory, where the body was incinerated. The ashes will be placed in the mausoleum of Elks' Rest, at Mountain View cemetery. Many beautiful floral pieces were sent by Bluck's friends, navy associates and brother Elks.

Bluck was born fifty-five years ago in the city of New York. He enlisted in the navy and was considered one of the most popular yeomen in the service.

He retired from active service three years ago on account of poor health, and has since been a constant sufferer. A severe attack of paresis about two weeks ago caused his death.

LAYS CRIME ON TWIN BROTHER

Though Twin Brother Doesn't Exist, and Original Now in Jail.

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 19.—Overconfidence in his ability to deceive with a plausible story has brought about the undoing of George E. Victor, alias M. S. Tremaine, alleged professional burglar, who has confessed to forging a check with the name of a lodger in the house of his newly betrothed. During the short time he has been in this city Victor has assiduously courted Miss Emily Harris, Victor dressed well and claimed to be in the employ of the California Fruit Distributors. He appeared to be a good "catch" and the two were soon engaged with the consent of the girl's mother.

INTO ROOM.

One evening when he called, according to the story he has since told the police, he slipped unobserved into a room in the house occupied by Max Hill, a brewery worker, who has a bank account. He snatched up Hill's checkbook which lay on a table, and after practicing the brewer's signature, he wrote out a check for $110. He readily cashed this by showing that he was in possession of the checkbook. Victor appeared the next day in a new suit of clothes and showered Miss Harris with presents.

HITCHES STORY.

Two days later, becoming fearful lest he might be accused of the theft of the checkbook, he contrived a means of diverting suspicion from himself. He approached Hill with a story of a twin brother, the very image of himself, who, he said, had confessed to him that he had stolen Hill's checkbook and forged Hill's name to a check for $110. He professed to be overcome with grief at the shame that would come upon his family with the exposure of the theft, and said he would do all he could to see that the money was returned.

BELIEVED HIM.

Hill at first believed the story of the grief-stricken Victor, but the bank officials persuaded him to take counsel with the police. Victor retold his story at the police station and for a time the local detective force really believed him to be deserving of sympathy. Further developments made them think different, and today Victor was placed under arrest and charged with forgery. After he had been "sweated" he made a confession. A search of his room revealed hundreds of dollars worth of jewelry, which is believed to have been stolen. He is now believed to be a professional burglar.

SLY FOX STEALS BALL FROM GOLFING PARTY

WINSTED, Conn., October 19.—Foxes in this neighborhood are taking an interest in the game of golf. When W. H. Phelps, Timothy Allen and Richard Hooker were playing on the Norfolk Downs recently Hooker drove the ball a long distance, and to his amazement saw a fox emerge from a wood lot pick up the ball and scamper away into the brush. Some one suggested that the fox thought the golf ball was no fox.

"No," said Hooker, "I am sure he thought it was a moth ball, and he is taking it to his winter quarters to preserve his fur."

LABORERS OF UNION IRON WORKS HEAR CANDIDATES

District Attorney Langdon Declares "We Will Take Care of Ruef at the Proper Time."

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—Mayor of a straw vote taken in the city by the Democratic Party, District Attorney Langdon and a number of other candidates on the Democratic-Good Government League ticket addressed a gathering of workmen at the Union Iron Works during the noon hour today.

A little stage, erected in the store and stripes, had been draped for the speakers on the sidewalk outside the shipyard gates, and from it the orators made their talk. Ralph McLaren, candidate for supervisor, called the meeting to order by urging the workmen not to allow themselves again to be used by a political henchman of the corporations. William P. McCabe, candidate for county clerk, said a few words about himself, and then came the district attorney.

"We mean to catch Patrick Calhoun. We are pursuing that course by the only effective means in our power. We know that the city was at the mercy of a contemptible boodling board of supervisors, and they were deserving of punishment for their crimes. But we couldn't reach Calhoun without the evidence of these creatures, and so between two evils we chose the lesser. Reluctantly we let go those wretched men who sold you, sold me, sold the city, and through them we will surely reach Calhoun."

AS TO RUEF.

"It has been asked why Ruef is in a private jail. Well, when we want him to testify we want to know that he is there. We'll take care of him at the proper time."

When Mayor Taylor took the rostrum he started in at once to put the straight question: "San Francisco needs prosperity; will confidence in her be continued by the election of the present administration?"

Answering this himself in the affirmative, the Mayor went on to urge his hearers to vote that way, so that "San Francisco shall look the people of the whole world fairly in the face."

On the subject of the workman he said: "Men are not measured by the money they have in the bank, by the clothes they wear, by their learning. They are measured by what they are, by their relations with their families, with the government, with their fellowmen. If a man has noble aspirations and keeps his obligations he is a noble man to me. That is the man I bow to."

The supervisory candidates on the Union Labor party ticket have opened headquarters at 1515 Polson street.

The Taylor-Langdon Union Men's Club will hold a mass-meeting Monday evening October 21, at the Old Church building, Tennessee street, between Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets. The speakers will include Mayor Taylor, District Attorney Langdon, Ralph McLaren, candidate for Supervisor; Lawrence J. Dolan, candidate for Sheriff; M. J. Hynes, candidate for Public Administrator; William P. McCabe, candidate for County Clerk; Thomas E. Hayden, and others.

FORM A CLUB.

A Union Labor Party Club has been formed by members of Carpenters Union No. 1540, and a pledge given to work for the success of P. H. McCarthy and the entire Union Labor ticket. Two hundred and forty signed the roll. At Regular Republican League headquarters yesterday a report was brought

SAW NO CRUELTY IN CONGO STATE

SEATTLE, October 19.—Richard Harding Davis and many other writers simply let their imaginations run away with them, for there is no more oppression of the natives in the Congo Free State by King Leopold and his agents than in many parts of Africa. Thus Professor Frederick Starr of the chair of anthropology in the University of Chicago declared today.

Professor Starr has arrived to lecture on conditions in the Congo at the University of Washington. "I spent many months in the Congo," Professor Starr continued, "and saw only one case of extreme cruelty, that of the mutilation of a boy by a black soldier. The black hands were cut off. Much of England's agitation against Leopold is due to political motives, and as soon as the King has granted a right of way for the Cape-to-Cairo railway this criticism will cease, to a large extent at least."

ENGLISH BANTAM-WEIGHT BEATS O'TOOLE IN PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19.—Before the National Athletic Club tonight Owen Moran, the 120-pound champion of England, defeated Tommy O'Toole of this city in six rounds of hard fighting. Moran was hissed a number of times for his dirty work and was warned repeatedly by the referee for heeling O'Toole. He proved himself a game, tough fighter, however, and had the better of it nearly all the way through.

In the second round he dropped O'Toole for the count of nine with a hard right to the jaw. O'Toole evened up things slightly in the third and made a fair showing in the fourth, but he never was able to hold his own with the Englishman. In the final round he fought O'Toole to the ropes and was all over him.

J. E. WEST, INDICTED BY GRAND JURY, GETS BAIL

SAN FRANCISCO, October 19.—John E. West, indicted by the Grand Jury on a charge of interfering with electrical wires, was admitted to bail by Judge Dunne yesterday on depositing $1000 cash.

The charge against West was dismissed in the Police Court, but he was subsequently indicted by the Grand Jury.

This bail was at first fixed at $5000 bonds or $2500 cash, but on the request of the defendant, and with the consent of the Assistant District Attorney William Zeck Cook, the amount of the bail was reduced.

store at the corner of Ellis and Stockton streets. The result, according to this report, was: Ryan, 132; McCarthy, 167; Taylor, 7.

"I feel better today than at any time during the fight," observed Daniel A. Ryan yesterday. "I'm having wonderful meetings and everywhere I hear words of encouragement. I think now that I am going to be elected. I don't care about the betting. They bet 4 to 1 against Schnitz the first time he was elected. That betting is an old trick used by wealthy influences to terrify the weak-kneed."

A big Ryan Republican meeting has been arranged for Monday night at the Davis Theater, at which Thomas F. Egan, late chairman of the Union Labor party County Committee, will deliver an address. Since Egan walked out of the McCarthy convention efforts have been made to win him over to Taylor. But "I'll take the stump for Ryan," he said; and now he is about to make good his word.

BOOSTS FOR RYAN.

Dr. T. E. Bailey, a champion of the Republican cause, was at the Van Ness Theater a few nights ago. Between acts there was a deal of political talk. Dr. Bailey reports that he observed a decided increase in the public interest in Ryan's campaign.

Isidore Jacobs still holds forth at Good Government League headquarters, declaring that nothing in the world can beat Taylor. "He'll get more votes than Ryan and McCarthy put together," avers Jacobs. He says that men are offering to bet that way at a reasonable rate of odds.

The report of the Taylor-Langdon meeting at the Union Iron Works received at Good Government League headquarters yesterday was that the crowd numbered at least 3000 and that the meeting was the most successful ever held there.

According to statistics furnished the Good Government League there are 30,000 unregistered male adults in town. The explanation is offered that 20,000 of these represent transients who have moved into the city recently and have not yet changed their places of residence, while the other 10,000 are men not sufficiently interested in the political situation to secure their right of franchise.

TO WATCH VOTERS.

Secretary Hugh Burke of the Good Government League says he has laid plans to frustrate attempts at illegal voting on the 5th of next month. "We'll have the grand jury in session and we'll have it so that an offender may be indicted, tried, convicted and sent to San Quentin, all in a week," says Burke.

A straw vote taken in a sealed box at Quail's grocery, Oak and Fillmore streets, today, showed 23 for McCarthy, 16 for Taylor and 11 for Ryan.

Soda and Mineral Water Bottlers' Union No. 10333 has endorsed I. H. Spiro for supervisor.

SEEKS DISMISSAL OF CHARGE OF PERJURY

George D. Collins Bases Plea on Fact That He Has Not Been Tried in Sixty Days.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—George D. Collins was again before Judge Lawlor today in an attempt to get the first charge of perjury against him dismissed on the ground that the prosecution has not brought him to trial within sixty days, without showing good cause for the continuances.

Prosecutor William Hoff Cook contended that it had been impossible to try Collins, as the record was not restored till August 3, last, and every effort of the District Attorney to restore it had been met with objections from Collins. After August 3, Cook said, Collins was in quarantine and could not have been tried.

Collins objects to the restoration and wants the matter reviewed by the Supreme Court, but cannot take it to the higher tribunal without a bill of exceptions.

WOUNDED BURGLAR WON'T TELL NAME

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 19.—"My name I will not tell for there is no use in disgracing my family, but for not killing me I will give you this new overcoat I'm wearing when you send me to Walla Walla, for you have got me right," an unknown burglar spoke as he lay crippled in the Arcade saloon, which he was plundering, a victim of the good marksmanship of Patrolman Richard V. Roser. The burglar, when surprised, drew his revolver, but Roser fired first, the bullet striking the man in the thigh. The wound is not dangerous.

LAUNDRYMEN MUST DRAIN THEIR PLANT

FRUITVALE, Oct. 19.—George B. Naegle and Arthur Mallette, proprietors of the Allendale laundry, near Fruitvale, have been notified by District Attorney Brown of Alameda county to drain their plant or cease operations. The order is the result of a petition sent to the board of supervisors asking that the laundry be declared a nuisance. It will be necessary for the laundrymen to provide a new drainage system for the plant.

MENDELSSOHN CLUB PLAYS

Richmond Home Scene of Rich Afternoon With the French School.

RICHMOND, Oct. 19.—The Mendelssohn Club held their regular semi-monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. F. S. Babcock, on Golden Gate avenue, Thursday afternoon. A splendid program had been arranged on the French school by the hostesses, Mrs. Babcock and Mrs. J. S. Myle, which was alike interesting and instructive to the large attendance.

A piano solo, a "Gavotte" (Pierre Doullet), by Miss Myrtle Allison, called forth hearty applause, to which response was made by the rendition of "Two Skylarks."

Mrs. F. E. Adams favored the gathering with a pleasing reading, "The Last Banquet."

Miss Elizabeth Goodwin Jacques, the well-known vocalist and teacher of Berkeley, who is about to establish a class in Richmond, delighted those present with the beautiful soprano solo, "The Elsy," by Massenet, responding to a hearty encore with "Arabian Song" and "Pastoral" by Godard.

A piano solo, Jensen's "Evening Song," was much enjoyed, as was also an interesting paper on French Music by Mrs. Arnold.

FIVE O'CLOCK DINNER.

Mrs. M. P. Church delightfully entertained some of her friends at her home on Nihol avenue Friday afternoon. The event being in honor of her birthday, some beautiful gifts and good wishes were tendered the hostess. A five o'clock dinner was served. Those present were: Mrs. L. L. Little, Mrs. W. Marsh, R. McCrae, E. Spierch, S. Jenkins, R. Ryle, J. Pearson, and Miss L. Wood and Miss Carroll.

G. E. Milnes, proprietor of the Gazette of Martinez, was in Richmond Thursday looking after property interests.

Ed M. Downer, proprietor of the Phoenix Times and Mayor of Richmond's flourishing suburb up the bay was in town yesterday attending to business matters.

Frank Leslie, a lineaman in the employ of Standard Oil Company, returned Thursday from a trip to Portland, Seattle, and other cities in the northwest. His rates here are said to get back to California.

TRAIN KILLS HORSE.

Tilden & Bakke, the lumberman, lost a valuable horse Thursday night. The animal strayed on the Santa Fe track near the crossing of the East Shore and Pacific at the north branch of the Oakland river, and a freight train came along and closed his career. He was buried this morning near the scene of the accident of a section crew of the railroad.

Contractors Flynn & Tracy, who are doing the street grading and macadamizing for Richmond and Washington avenues and Park Place, expect to have their job completed and ready to turn over to the city not later than a week from next Saturday night. The work is now going with a rush and with a sufficient number of teams to haul the rock, and other material it is not at all improbable that their expectations will be realized.

GLASS EXCEPTIONS BILL IS VOLUMINOUS

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—Prosecutor John O'Garra and Attorney J. L. Robinson decided today in Judge Lawlor's court to attempt to reach an agreement on the bill of exceptions to the Louis Glass case during the coming week. Robinson, who represents the defense, has prepared a bill comprising 1,000 typewritten pages, probably one of the most voluminous bills of exceptions on record. O'Garra said that he had gone through about one-third of the document and found much redundant matter in it, but that otherwise it was satisfactory. Robinson answered that he put much into the bill from an excess of caution, as the redundancy could be more easily eliminated than amendments could be added.

O'Garra then announced that being engaged in the trial of General Tilden, L. Ford would be unable to take the matter up personally, but said Assistant District Attorney Robert W. Harrison would appear for him. Judge Lawlor set next Saturday as the date for the attorneys to appear before him with the bill.

BITTER FIGHT ON FOR CHILD

Mother Marries After Divorce and Now Seeks to Recover Little Daughter.

SACRAMENTO, October 19.—A bitter fight is being fought in the Sacramento Superior Court for the possession of seven-year-old Madeline Lang, the daughter of Charles Lang, an employee of the Northern Pacific and a transient, to whom Lang was married three years ago.

"The married life of the Langs was unhappy and ended in a divorce. The child was placed in the care of Mrs. Frank Lang of this city in the meantime Mrs. Lang met and decided a newspaper man of Elgin, Nev., and became Mrs. James Cunningham."

FATHER FIGHTS. Now Mrs. Cunningham wishes to secure possession of her little girl. Lang will not consent to have the child leave Sacramento with her mother and has employed Grove L. Johnson to defend his rights in court.

Testimony was offered today to show that the mother is indifferent toward her child. It was said that recently when the little Madeline ran to her mother and threw her arms around her neck Mrs. Cunningham exclaimed: "Don't do that, you make me nervous." While Mrs. Cunningham and her former husband were on the stand they fervently made faces at one another a great part of the time.

THIEF IN CLERK'S CLOTHING

BUNCOS GROCERY WOMAN

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—Clever thieves have outwitted Miss Ott, who conducts a grocery store at 601 Point Lobos avenue. Yesterday she received a note purporting to have been signed by one of her clerks, asking for a loan of $20. She gave the messenger $25 and took a receipt for the amount.

A few moments later the clerk came into the store and denied all knowledge of the transaction and the police were notified. Yesterday John Johnson was arrested and charged with having sent the note and received the money. Johnson has been identified by the messenger boy.

Imitating Alameda County.

Tulare county is about to follow the example of Alameda county in the development of a system of macadamized roads, all concentrating at Visalia, the county seat, as the Alameda county roads converge at Oakland. Alameda county has the best system of macadamized roads in the State, which explains their popularity among automobilists, and the Board of Supervisors makes a special point of keeping them in good order.

In Tulare county it is proposed, where the natural foundation consists of an admixture of clay and gravel, to treat the surface with a heavy coating of sand and crude petroleum, as has been done with many of the country roads in Los Angeles county. Where no such natural foundation exists, an artificial foundation of coarsely broken rock will be laid, which will be covered with a top coating of crude oil and sand. This, it is claimed, will form a smooth, dustless and enduring surface that will carry the heaviest teams employed in the county. The Tulare county Supervisors are to be congratulated for their enterprise in following the example of our own Supervisors. What they are about to inaugurate will probably be instrumental in stimulating other counties in the San Joaquin valley to do likewise until such time is reached when the latter will be gridironed from one end to the other with a network of smooth and dustless roadways. Good roads are a sign of enterprise and an assurance of prosperity.

Futile Experiments With Smelter Fumes.

The Selby smelter has become as much of a storm center in Solano and Contra Costa counties as the Keswick smelters were, at one time in Shasta county, and the proposed Guggenheim smelter at Faden is in the three counties of San Mateo, San Francisco and Alameda. Eleven months ago, Solano county obtained an injunction against the further operation of the Selby plant because of the damage which was being done to the vegetable and animal life in that county by the poisonous fumes emitted from the smokestacks of the works. Under an agreement entered into with the Solano county Board of Supervisors, the special attorney representing the latter in the injunction suit, the works was permitted to operate while experiments were being made with devices designed to filter the sulphurous and arsenical substances from the fumes before they were discharged into the open air. The purpose of the delay in putting the injunction in force was to give the company opportunity to prove, if possible, the correctness of the theory of experts that the fumes from smelters, like those of the Selby works, can be rendered harmless and the industry permitted to live where it has been located. No one wishes to see such an important industrial plant closed down, if it is possible for its business to be conducted offensively to other interests. Nothing could be fairer.

But the Solano county farmers and the residents of Benicia and other places lying in the path of the fumes when drifting before prevailing winds are growing restive, as the experiments made during the past eleven months have not been productive of the desired results. A week ago, a large committee of the citizens of Benicia, headed by the mayor of the city, visited Fairfield, the county seat to confer with the county's attorney and to learn why the judgment of Superior Judge Harrier, who had signed the findings that the fumes from the smelter were a nuisance, had not been acted upon and the court's injunction enforced. In the preliminary proceedings of the conference, the secretary read articles published by the press and a contribution to the history of smelting made by John E. Bennett, counsel for the Home Protective Association of San Mateo county. In the latter it was represented that a thorough study by experts of all the smelters in the United States and of every smelter case tried in the American courts, determined the fact that there is no device known to have been employed which will prevent a smelter in operation from throwing forth hundreds of tons of poisonous substances daily. In the discussion which followed Solano county's representative in the injunction suit participated, explaining the causes of delay as already described. So far every device which has been employed has failed to remove the cause of complaint. Specimens of the summer crops raised in the neighborhood of Benicia and in Glen Cove were displayed, all of them blackened with a deposit of lead. At present the works is experimenting with an electrical device which appears to destroy the sulphur dioxide before it passes out of the smoke stacks. It may be added that the Women's Improvement Club is taking an active interest also in the opposition to the works.

Notwithstanding the failure of the experiments made at Selby's some experts assert that if the smelter companies will only spend the money required for the installation of the right kind of a precipitation plant the fumes can be filtered of all their mineral ingredients and rendered absolutely harmless. The objection raised by the smelters against this is that it increases the cost of ore reduction. If this is true, it is merely a matter of economics which the smelter companies are averse to adopting because it will reduce the profits of operating their establishments. That is not a valid reason for impairing the property of others.

The point emphasized in the experience of the Solano county farmers and others with the Selby plant in its relation to the Baden smelter is that if the latter is permitted to be erected and operated, the three counties which will be affected by its poisonous fumes will be completely at its mercy and the same trouble encountered in the efforts made to correct the evils of the Shasta county and the Contra Costa county smelters will be repeated, the same kind of damage done to plant and animal life will be suffered, and the same difficulty to suppress the cause will be experienced. Not until it is proved beyond the question of reasonable doubt that a smelter can be operated absolutely free from objection by other industries should that proposed to be erected at Baden be permitted to start its fires. The Home Protective Association of San Mateo is prepared to spend any amount of money to protect the valuable property or its members whose security the prospect of a smelter at Baden menaces, and the farming and manufacturing interests and communities in Alameda county, whose interests are equally endangered, are ready to co-operate in self-defense.

Railway Troubles in Britain.

According to all appearances Great Britain is on the eve of witnessing a great railroad strike throughout the country. The question is the recognition of the union of railway employees. It will be, we believe, the first trouble of the kind in which the British railroads have been involved. Of late years, all labor troubles in the tight little island have been amicably adjusted by arbitration and industrial peace has for a long time reigned. In the coal districts and along the docks in the great seaports of the country, employees and the trades unions have reached a middle ground satisfactory to all concerned. One hundred thousand of the 600,000 railway workers in the country belong to the unions. How far the non-unionized men will sympathize with the strike which seems inevitable only time can tell. The managers of the railway corporations are preparing to import foreigners to operate their lines, and erecting shanties to house the strike-breakers at all the railway centers.

Skiping an Equinoctial.

The autumnal equinox is apparently passing without any visitation this year of the storm which usually marks the sun's transit across the equator. In ordinary years such storms have visited the Pacific Coast between the 1st and 15th of October. In the New England States violent gales raged during the early part of the month, in which much damage was done to shipping along the Atlantic seaboard and to property inland, and during their presence the vagaries of Eastern fall weather—such as snow, sleet, hail and rain—were as usual in evidence.

Ordinarily at this time of the year we look for the setting in of a strong southeaster here, accompanied with a good downpour of rain moistening the earth sufficiently to start the pastures and to soften the soil so that the plows can be started and the land seeded for the next year's crop. But up to date, save at Eureka, Humboldt bay, only one or two light showers have so far fallen this season, and there are at present no indications of rain in any part of the State, the sunshine bathing the land in all directions. At Eureka the rainfall has exceeded the normal for the season at this date.

Potato growing is regarded as the homeliest kind of an industry, but it has been tremendously profitable to some people this year. The Colusa Sun cites a case in point. "W. A. Curtis of Wood, Curtis & Co.," it says, "represents that this year on seven acres of bottom land he realized a net profit of $4000 in potatoes. Some of his product he sold on the river bank for $150 per sack, and the goods were resold in San Francisco as high as $3.15. His seven acres produced no less than 1912 sacks this year."

CHIPS FROM OTHER BLOCKS.

Eggs are eggs these days, but the poultrymen complain that as soon as the price goes up to 40 cents the hens stop work, and that they do their level best at times when the price is hardly enough to pay for the wear and tear on the hen. Perhaps the poultrymen confuse cause with effect. But how about those scientific rations guaranteed to stimulate the output of eggs whenever desired—which is right now.—Santa Rosa Press-Democrat.

The well known Reed prune orchard of forty acres, northeast of Gridley, now owned by the Earl Fruit Company, and of which Frank Watson is the superintendent, produced 120 tons of dried prunes this season. When graded the prunes average 512-10 in size. They were sold on the three-cent basis, and the price, figured on the sizes, aggregated $89 per ton, making the gross returns $10,680, or $267 an acre. The orchard has paid its owner a net return during the past twelve years of over $150 per acre per year. This is ten per cent interest on $1500 per acre.—Gridley Herald.

Adam could not have paid that fine if he lived until now and saved ten dollars every day including Sundays, but Rockefeller can pay it and have more left than Solomon ever possessed.—The Commercial.

BOTTLERS TO ASK FOR LAWS

Hope National Association Will be Able to Get Favorable Legislation.

DENVER Oct. 19.—After selecting Baltimore as the next place for meeting, the American Doctors Association yesterday elected the following officers: John A. Piel del president, Baltimore; first vice president, Henry Shaffer, Jersey City; second vice president, Willis A. Gilbert, Chicago; third vice president, James O'Connell, Brooklyn; treasurer, Henry J. Schmidt, Hoboken; secretary, R. J. Schrode, New York.

An executive committee was chosen and instructed to make every effort to get all state and even lesser associations into the national association.

It was pointed out by many of the delegates in a general discussion that if the national association was strengthened by all the letters of the country it would be able to demand and to get certion laws enacted by Congress which are very necessary to the welfare of the organization and which cannot now be secured for the sake of unity and power.

Pure food laws and their relation to the bottle and the country were discussed informally.

PUTS UP BAIL BEFORE HE CAN BE ARRESTED

Chambers told to the morning that his wife had sworn to a complaint against him and he had been told to get up and go to court. He said he did not know how to get up and go to court. The charge made by Mrs. Chambers will be heard in the Police Court on Monday.

THE KNAVE

Bulletin Is in a Bad Way and Losing Heavily.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 19. — There can be no gainsaying the fact that "Fussy Wussy" Taylor is abnormally strong in Berkeley, Sausalito, San Rafael, Belvedere, San Mateo and Piedmont. Practically every San Francisco merchant and business man living in these beautiful suburbs wears a large button bearing "Fussy Wussy's" face.

If they lived over here every one of them would vote for him. But as they live outside of San Francisco, they have to content themselves with wearing his button. So you see it is a case of "Button, button, where do you vote?"

A number of the laboring people, especially those affiliated with the Labor Council, are also wearing "Fussy Wussy" buttons. But I think they are simply wearing them for a joke. You can find all the union people you care to who are going to vote for Taylor, according to their first story, and in the next breath they say: "but McCarthy is going to be elected."

There is no question that Taylor is strong today. But just how much of his strength will fade away between now and November is a matter for speculation. I think the doctor has reached the high-tide of his popularity, and from now on there will be a constant and perceptible decline in the amount of enthusiasm expressed for him from all sides, especially the business community.

McCarthy on the other hand, is making a hard and determined fight, and is unquestionably far more powerful today than he was the morning after his nomination. His argument that Michael Casey of the Board of Public Works, a Taylor appointee, who is against him, was seated on the platform at the big Taylor ratification meeting Saturday night cheek by jowl with Frank J. Symmes, head of the Employers' Association, is having the desired effect. Casey is very bitter against McCarthy, and McCarthy uses the fact that Casey and Symmes are together as proof of his argument that the Citizens' Alliance is opposed to him.

A significant feature of the McCarthy meetings, both in the open air and in doors, is the tremendous applause that greets attacks on Rudolph Spreckels, James D. Phelan and the gang of jackals and vultures who are waxing fat on their bank rolls.

Evidently Spreckels is more than unpopular with the labor people, and McCarthy uses this unpopularity with telling effect. If things are going slow, all he has to do to raise a cheer is to take a smash at Spreckels and the graft prosecution, and the men respond with wild enthusiasm. Especially is this so at the big gatherings in front of the iron works, the foundries and the mid-day meetings he holds in the manufacturing districts.

Dan Ryan's campaign is surprisingly quiet. He does not seem to be able to arouse very much enthusiasm at his meetings, but he is an earnest young man, and the fact that Spreckels and his gang are against him, will help him materially at the polls.

Then again the infamous article that appeared in McClure's Magazine attacking the Catholics will help Ryan, as it is known definitely that people identified with the alleged graft prosecution conferred with Kennan before he wrote a line of his infamous screed.

The fight Frank McGowan is making for the District Attorneyship is the most remarkable feature of the campaign.

McGowan is a mighty good talker, has a prepossessing personality, can give the glad hand as heartily as anyone I have ever met, and doesn't have to have somebody else write his speeches. He came into public life several years ago when he was elected a member of the State Senate. There he was regarded as a man of unusual capacity and a bright future was predicted for him. Since then he has built up a good law practice here and has a host of friends, all of whom are working tooth and nail for his election.

McGowan is particularly strong among the business men, and I understand hosts of the hard-shell Republicans are going to vote for him, notwithstanding the fact that District Attorney Laugdon is on their party ticket.

The labor people have always felt kindly toward McGowan because he is a man of democratic principles, and has never evinced any signs of suffering from the "big head." He is a man of kindly instincts, and his private life is absolutely clean.

The manner in which McGowan has been lambasting the prosecution and the abnormal influence which Rudolph Spreckels exerts over the affairs of the District Attorney, has been very, very popular, especially among the laboring people and the merchants. In fact, outside of the actual supporters of P. H. McCarthy and the wing of the Labor Party, that he and his ticket definitely represent, McGowan's support is among the merchants and financiers, who feel that he will make a very capable District Attorney, and that if he is elected to office, he will not permit anybody to take his job away from him.

Already he is even money in the betting against Laugdon.

The Spreckels family is very tired of "The Call." Old Claus Spreckels regards the paper as nothing more than a white elephant, while John D. and John D. Jr., who are more intimately connected with the sheet than any other members of the Spreckels family, are disgusted with the manner in which the game is played.

John D. has lost over $100,000 on the paper since the fire and is now well into a second $100,000 loss. It is well enough to have a newspaper as a club, but at the price that Spreckels has paid, the club is not worth the money.

A friend of Claus Spreckels, in discussing "The Call" the other day in the Pacific-Union Club, stated the sugar king told him that just as soon as young Jack Spreckels manifested any signs of weariness so far as the newspaper business is concerned, he will see "The Call" is sold to the highest bidder.

Recently one of Mr. Spreckels' agents went east to see what could be done in the way of forming a syndicate for the purchase of "The Call." But thus far his mission has been in vain. Syndicates don't like to go into the newspaper business on the grounds that it is too precarious, and the history of "The Call" during the past five years has simply been a tale of all in, down and out.

It is understood Mr. Spreckels is very much disgusted with the manner in which the editorial end of the paper is being conducted. The only return he is getting for his money is the creation of a bureau of very powerful enemies, who will hurt him both socially and financially before they get through with him.

It is a well-known fact that John D. and Rudolph are not only unfriendly, but that their business interests lie in different directions. "The Call" has been supporting Rudolph's private graft prosecution in a sort of insane manner using no judgment in its selection of the news bearing upon the graft situation, and on more than one occasion, personal friends of John D. have been hit pretty hard.

I am told there are to be a number of changes in "The Bulletin" staff in the near future, certainly immediately after the election. If Taylor is defeated for Mayor "The Bulletin" will probably have to go out of business.

Luther Brown's suit against the paper has done it no good and the sensational manner in which Fremont Older, its managing editor, was legitimately arrested, has sort of made the entire bunch identified with the sheet look like prominent citizens of Jayville.

In "The Bulletin" office there was a terrific fight, so it is said, among the heads of the editorial department over the publication of the infamous criminal libel of Luther Brown. Older declared that he had nothing to do with the matter and was not responsible, and tried to pass the buck to one of his underlings, who refused to take it. The next day Older was frantically telephoning around to get people to take one of the small-salaried positions that he has in his giving.

The circulation manager of "The Bulletin," I am told, has been dropped from the payroll because of his failure to sell the paper, which has simply dwindled to almost nothing. At present it is merely a political handbill gotten up in the most primitive manner known to unquestioned incompetency. If Taylor is defeated it will be because of "The Bulletin's" support.

One of the remarkable developments of the present political campaign is the ease with which Dr. Edward Robeson Taylor has slid into the good graces of the motley and almost antagonistic forces that have combined to keep a laborite out of the Mayor's chair. Five months ago, if one had canvassed every name that it was possible to suggest in San Francisco as a plausible nominee to defeat the unionists, that of Dr. Taylor would have been the last to be accepted.

He never for a moment entered the calculations of anybody who was practical enough to consider the situation in its serious phases or who was influential enough to have a voice in the councils of the small group of men that is determined to rule San Francisco for the next two years.

If Dr. John Galloway had listened to the pleadings of the cabal, Dr. Taylor would still be locked in the privacy of his study writing poetry on the earthquake.

But a freak of political fate thrust him into the limelight and another has made him a candidate to try and cement jarring influences that must be united to stand even a ghost of a chance of victory. The reasons for this exceptional condition of affairs are not uninteresting.

The practical politicians and the self-seekers in the Taylorite camp are firmly convinced that as far as their plans and purposes are concerned, Dr. Taylor is harmless.

The fellows who are scheming for franchises and the politicians who are planning for plums, are set in their conviction that the venerable lawyer-doctor is so far in the clouds of idealism that he will neither mingle in the baser concerns of commercial scheming and political jobbery nor disturb the serenity of his exalted thoughts by dipping in the nasty pool of the place hunters.

To this class of his supporters Dr. Taylor appears to be harmless and he has the gratification of whole hearted sympathy from this wing of his improvised party. Then there is the parasitic class, a very numerous one in San Francisco, composed of the men who prey upon the follies and the foibles of their fellows. Their very existence is involved in the license of a coin scattering tenderloin, in gambling joints that flourish under the winking eyes of a complacent police, in saloons that are not too closely held to the proprieties.

The learned doctor has said that he believes certain liberties, which a Puritan might construe into licenses, must be tolerated in a city so cosmopolitan and so pleasure loving as San Francisco. So the impression has gone forth and has even crystallized into a conviction that Dr. Taylor is entirely willing to let well enough alone. This means that certain vested interests, which most of us are inclined to look upon as criminal, feel secure in their position and are linked in the noble cause of regeneration and reform.

There remains still another element of political strength in San Francisco that by the alchemy of persuasion has been welded into the Taylor column. This consists of the men who want nothing of Laborite domination, but insist upon a Mayor who will be independent, but against union men. Strange as it may appear, many say Dr. Taylor fits into this niche.

From one point of view he is harmless, from another he is complacent, from a third he is independent. From these sources he tries to draw material strength and presents to the community perhaps the most curious nominee who ever asked the suffrage of San Francisco for Mayor.

Apropos of national politics I heard something in Berkeley the other night which should be interesting to the people of your section and the state. It was that in the event of the nomination and election of Secretary Taft as the successor of President Roosevelt that Professor Bernard Moses of the state university, would without question, be asked to accept one of the portfolios in his cabinet. That sounds good. Moses likes politics better than college.

Professor Moses has been in the eye of the administration for a long time. His service on the Philippine Commission was, it is said, satisfactory to the government. It was the beginning of a strong personal friendship with Taft which has never been broken. When I speak of a beginning I mean in the sense of a political future.

Not only has Professor Moses been of value to the government in that work, but he has also established himself as an authority on all matters relating to South American republics and their future possibilities. In many ways his opinions are found grafted on the acts of the administration and his thorough capabilities in all ways make him exceedingly good timber for the support of an advanced administration.

California is becoming a factor in national affairs.

It came as a real surprise to me the last time I was in Oakland to find what a "real night town" your city is getting to be. I have heard everywhere about the great strides your place is making in everything that is great for a city but it was the first time I found that you were the real thing at "night."

Broadway is certainly the "Great White Way." There are as many barkers on duty as you will find at Coney Island. There are as many theaters as a place would desire and they are all well patronized. But commend me to the restaurants which have sprung up since the advent of your new history. They are hostleries of the most approved type and certainly eminently satisfactory.

The patrons of these places are well behaved and Bohemian. There are seen all that is chic and all that is of the smart set. Music and song, pretty women and choice wines and cuisines that would appeal to any gormand and satisfy any epicure.

Women Must Fit Themselves and Generations That Come for Glorious Portion in the World Which Is to Be Theirs

By Olga Nethersole

OLGA NETHERSOLE, A GREAT OAKLAND FAVORITE

"We women often find ourselves misunderstood. Our motives are misinterpreted and our inspirations misjudged because such as constitute themselves our critics do not take trouble to analyze our intentions. I am moved to the foregoing remark after reading the headline to an article that appeared in last Sunday's San Francisco Call concerning my interest in mental science and which was referred to as a 'fad'."

"I have not the slightest doubt but that the gentleman who wrote the article was perfectly satisfied that he had very properly interpreted my motives and that my interest in the science was merely superficial."

Judgment Superficial

"If it were worth while I might respectfully submit to him that his judgment was, to say the least, merely of a superficial nature. But it would not be worth while, because we all know that a man convinced against his will is of the same opinion still, and all the arguments and convincing in the world would have no effect upon my respected critic. Unless one is understood one cannot hope for sympathy, as the two go hand in hand. Our Divine Savior would never have suffered martyrdom had His motives been clearly understood by the men of His time and He could have had no enemies."

"Of course, it is easy to complain that one is not understood, but it sometimes occurs that we are ourselves somewhat involved and that we are difficult in our views which therefore do not easily excite sympathy. Our ideas may be prolix, our thoughts may be overboard even though our views may be of the highest; still we may be beyond the ken of those in whom we would wish to excite a sympathetic response. That misfortune happens usually to people who think beyond their fellows who, as it were, are living beyond their time."

No Pity for Martyrs

"I do not sympathize with such of my sex—as, far too many of us—who selfishly enshroud themselves in a self-pitying cloak of martyrdom and who, by some strange hallucination, imagine the whole world is arrayed against them. For them I entertain nothing but pity. They are invalids, mentally, morally and physically. Thank God, each succeeding generation sees fewer of these undesirables who seem to have been born to make their own and their friends' lives unhappy. They live paradoxically, for they are happiest when most unhappy."

"A broader educational field, a better and more liberal upbringing and greater and more careful attention to physical culture of young girls is responsible for the improvement in womankind. It is hard to believe that in the days when my grandmothers were young girls the most they were called upon to do was to knit samplers, strum 'The Blue Danube' on indifferent piano-forte and try to look pretty and graceful in most unbecomingly ugly clothes. It makes me shudder to think of what I escaped by being born too late."

Power of Nurseries

"The late Duke of Wellington declared that the Battle of Waterloo was won in the playing fields of Eton College. He might have gone a little farther back and have said that it was won in the English nurseries. It is in the nursery that we must look for the germ of what the future is to give us. If therefore our energies are bent towards the mental and physical development of young girl we are going to create a process of natural selection without the unpleasant features which, followed literally, that would lead to.

"I see no reason why woman should not with equal opportunities be as successful in most branches of commerce and business as is man who, despite his many protestations against female competitions and cheapened labor is invariably foremost in helping woman to broaden her sphere by education and opportunity. Why has man helped us onward against what he believed was his better judgment?

"The answer is very simple."

Man Was Forced

"He had to do it because it was instinct with him to try to right the wrong under which we women have suffered from time immemorial. And he may lay the flattering unction to his soul that he will never find in us a tyrannous peer ready to abuse the weapon he has placed in our hands, but rather will he find us better help-meets and more useful."

And this brings me back to the thought that was in my mind when I began this article—sympathy and understanding. If we women are trained in the same curriculum—mentally as well as physically—with men, they must perforce understand us better as we shall better understand them, than if we continued to be unconsciously trained to regard them as our natural enemies and destroyers and, if being regarded from a mutual standpoint, we are understood, sympathy must follow as the night follows the day."

In Union Is Strength

"In union we have strength and the phrase has no better meaning than when it is applied to a union of the interests of the sexes. In the ages that have passed there has always been waged, silently, remorselessly and with bitterness a fight between the sexes, neither yielding to the other, neither gaining any appreciable victory over the other. Hatred was paramount."

"Why? Because one dominated the other."

"Man was woman's master."

"But now that is changed."

"Soon a generation will arise that will know no distinction of sex. The best will dominate, regardless of any other issue and with the advent of that generation there will come an era of peace and good-will, the like of which the world has never known but of which the Savior dreamed and preached."

Women to Be a Power

"The influence of woman in the past has been powerful, but it is nothing to how she will fulfill her mission in the future, the shackles of superstition and ignorance having fallen from her limbs."

"When that generation has arrived there will be an end to warfare and all brutality. Civilized as some of us think we are, there is much of barbarism remaining and there is very little difference between man nowadays and man five hundred years ago. Most of that little difference is veneer. It is true that we have pressed science into our service, thus abusing its wondrous gifts in carrying out man's bloody practice of slaughtering those with whom it happens not to agree. But when woman's influence is as keenly felt as it will be other counsels will prevail."

Cannot Look Back

"Now we cannot look back—even far back in the abyss of time—and see much advancement over the methods of our forefathers who wore skins and painted their faces. But there will be material changes when the time of which I write shall arrive."

"In the meantime we women must fit ourselves and the generations that come after us for the glorious portion in the world that is to be ours, and the facilities for which are very great today, largely through the magnanimity of man."

OLGA NETHERSOLE.

Spanish Dignity Falls Before Taft Handshake; Mayor Calls the Secretary a 'Nature Faker'

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 19.—Secretary Taft is not one of the humorist statesmen, but he makes a lot of good humor, for one visitor at the capital has decided that the Taft laugh is among the institutions of the place. There may not be a real deficiency of wit and repartee, although he has made no reputation in that direction. He is one of the hardest, most incoherent workers Washington has ever seen. At Cincinnati he was equally absorbed. His name has been connected with great actions so continuously that the public writers have hardly had time to hunt up the harvest of his lighter moments. He is no recluse. He is fond of companionship, even of society. With friends or strangers he is a good, jolly talker. To make a book of clever sayings and good stories, however, will never be part of the duties of a Taft biographer. It is conceivable that he lacks the spirit of malice, the dash of cynicism, that goes with the entertaining story-teller. If he is capable of humor, as he is at times, he is not beyond anger. He had hardly been installed as secretary of war, before a story leaked out that he had been duplicated in the department more than once before. A provoking case of negligence was brought to his attention. His officer was ordered to report.

WHEN HE WAS ANGRY. After the fact, however, the secretary's skin shows plainly the flush of annoyance. The delinquent clerk saw the flush, and flushed himself as the big fist came down on the desk. Then, suddenly, Taft's face broke out in a smile. He put his hand on the other's shoulder, and pleasantly turned the reproach into friendly advice.

One of the journalistic travelers, so abundant in this day of world events, says that Baron Kodama, the Japanese minister, asked after Taft, and exclaimed: "A mighty body! A mighty spirit!" Another journalist tells how the mighty body and mighty spirit have the attribute of taking mighty pains. It was the Philippines Taft saw at once that a growing trouble was the white tendency to draw a sharp color line in social life. He set an example the other way. When he attended a Filipino dinner he always tried to take on his own arm a leading native woman. At one ball he surprised everybody by dancing correctly the intricate figures of the rumba, or Spanish quadrille. He had taken the trouble to have a young Filipino write out the directions, with a diagram of the figures, and had studied the paper closely. ROOT AND FORAKER HIS BACKERS. Taft, when a young lawyer, was called upon unexpectedly to argue the case for the libelousness of Thomas Campbell, a noted criminal lawyer. The argument attracted the attention of Foraker, just elected Governor. Of his own initiative the Governor appointed young Taft to the seat vacated by Campbell, thus opening the judicial career which led to subsequent preferment.

When McKinley asked Taft to go to the Philippines at the head of the civil commission the judge tried to escape the task. It was Root, then secretary of war, who said the persuading word. He appealed to Taft's sense of duty. "Stay home and you will be comfortable," he said, "or go to the Philippines and perform a great service to the country." And it was not a warm support which was Taft's best aid in the difficult transfer of authority in the Philippines from the military to the civil department.

TAFT AND SPANISH DIGNITY. Secretary Taft is never a trifler. One may be sure that his jokes do not interfere with the essential solemnity of what he says or does. His treatment of a Spanish judge who was a great man in the Philippines provinces might in another man have the color of being a quiet joke. It was a means Taft took to simplify his relations with the people.

The Spaniard, an ex-captain, was in the grandeur of full uniform and decoration. He looked for a high ceremony. The assembled multitude also looked for the appearance of gold lace and stiff dignity on the person of the American official. Instead, Taft wore light linen. When introduced he gave the Spaniard a vigorous handshake and a familiar smile. When a few minutes later, he received the appointment of governor of the province, he appeared on his formal taking of office in plain white clothes.

"It is no longer customary," he explained when the absence of his fine clothes was noticed. And he went around, shaking hands in imitation of Taft.

"FEMININE" HANDWRITING. In one respect Taft is much like Grover Cleveland: He dislikes to dictate a stenographer, and he does a great deal of his own writing by hand.

Like the writing of Mr. Cleveland, that of Judge Taft is a small feminine hand that would suggest anything but the big man behind it. His autograph is in as great demand as that of any other public man, and he is immensely good natured about giving it.

"I'll never be content until I throw Bill Taft," laughingly said Herbert W. Bowen, formerly minister to Venezuela.

His term of office closed with the last session of Congress, and learning from him at that time that his ambitions were all centered upon a position upon the bench, Taft was then solicitor general of the United States, and, by the way, was one of the youngest men who ever held that position. Dubois, also young then, had just been elected as the first Senator from the newly admitted state of Idaho. He had gone to the Department of Justice to discuss a question of law in connection with the constitution of the new State, and met Taft for the first time. After their business was finished Taft complimented Dubois upon his election to the Senate, and spoke feelingly of the great distinction enjoyed by members of that body.

"You have obtained a great position for so young a man," he told Dubois, "and I congratulate you." Then he went on to say that, even if he had any inclination toward politics, he would not even know how to begin the fight for a political position.

"In my own State," he said, "I am an outsider. The politicians who run things would never think of me for an elective office, and I would not know how to force myself in, even if I wanted to."

As a fact, his continued "politics" has absolutely no attraction for him. If I am to attain success in life it will be as a judge."

He told Dubois that he could think of no greater honor for himself than to become a justice of the supreme Court, and intended to devote his attention to the law with such earnestness that at some time in the future he might be considered worthy of so exalted a position. Hewing close to the line as he had planned, and with no aid to the promotion of his desires but his own ability, Taft was offered the Supreme Court judgeship to which he aspired when he was little more than 40 years of age. And when it came to him that consideration regard for duty which had characterized his every action in life prevented him from accepting it.

A SUGGESTED CAREER. In the older Taft circles there is still current a bit of humor at Secretary Taft's expense. At the time of this narrative the future war diplomat was a young man whose main ambition in life seemed to be that of tossing a six-ten-pound hammer around a vacant field. One of his old professors, taking an interest in young Taft, stopped him on the street one day and said: "Mr. Taft, what are you going to do with yourself when you get out of school?"

There was a careless phrase then making the rounds of the colleges, and Taft employed it. "I don't know," he replied. "I'm too light for heavy work and too heavy for light work."

"Um," grunted the old grammarian. "Then you'd better become a trance medium, sir."

While the Secretary of War was talking to Judge Cullen in Washington recently the conversation drifted to a discussion of one of the young men in the diplomatic service. "I'm afraid young Blank has lost interest in his work," remarked the judge.

"What makes you think so?" queried the secretary. "Well, he frequently has told me that the game isn't worth the candle."

"Is that so?" answered Taft. "Well, I've noticed that most of those fellows are fellows who happen to be burning the candle at both ends."

TAFT AND OLD LADY. That brave old lady who turned upon Roosevelt after he, though unbidden, had assisted her on to the car and said, "Don't you get too fresh, young man," was surprised in her vigorous American democracy by another old woman last summer. This time Secretary Taft was the victim.

It was at a rural railway station where the train had stopped for about ten minutes, and the secretary thought he would get out on the depot platform and stretch his legs. He had taken about two turns, when he was pounced upon by a charming but hasty old lady, who grabbed him by the arm and dragged him over to the baggage room.

"You're the very fellow I'm looking for," she began at the rate of a word a second. Thinking this might be the latest way of proposing, Mr. Taft tried to murmur that he was already married and had his wife on the train with him, when he was stopped short in front of a small house and asked to overhew with wearing apparel, some of which was boiling out of the top.

"There," said the old lady grimly, turning to the rattled baggage agent, "I'll bet if he sets on it we can get it shut!" The St. Paul, when Secretary Taft was waiting for a deputation of welcoming citizens, he happened to see a little boy go by, riding on a donkey.

"That reminds me," said he, turning to the mayor of the town, "of a ride I once had in the Philippines. I had to get up to a village on the side of a mountain about twelve miles distant, and the only animal I could find to ride was a diminutive burro, scarcely half as large as that one there."

The mayor gazed at the 300-pound narrator with a suspicious eye. "Did you ride him?" he asked. "I rode him up there in something like an hour and a half. Then, having transacted my business, I turned the animal about and went on further up."

"Just a minute," interrupted the mayor. "How big was this donkey, anyway?"

"Oh, I should judge his head would reach about the vest pocket."

"And he weighed?"

"Oh, about a hundred and fifty pounds."

The mayor did some mental arithmetic. "Taft," he announced at length, "you are a nature faker."

"Why, Mickey, if de suffragers was to win it would mean de end of all de wars. If dere was a woman president in place of Teddy it would be a dead clinch to make goo-goo eyes at 'er an' get de best job in de countrie. If a diplomat wanted ter get one of dese titties passed all he would have to do would be to get sweet on de president an' tell 'er as how she was de whole cheese an' dat 'eh eyebrows was de finest ting dat ever happened, and dat she didn't kneed to wear a bussel. "But, hully che, Mickey, wouldn't it be fine? Dere wouldn't be no more bribery. Take it in de case of de governor of de State bein' a woman. In place of havin' lawyers, dese big companies would only have to have one of dese pretty men dat would work fer 'is board an' clothes and $6 a week. Most of dem can't make dat now."

"But, hully gee, Mickey, look at de graft an' corrupshun dat would be saved. Sure, de moral tone of de countrie would improve and dere wouldn't be so many men in jail. Why, if a good lookin' burglar was to make eyes at de female judge she would tink right away dat he was stuck on 'er, and she wouldn't let 'im off with a sentence of keepin' her company fer a while. Just look at de expense dat de State would be saved from keepin' dese men in jail."

"It's time fer me to get de dinner fer de old man, Mickey, so I've got ter be takin' de kid home. But de suffragers 'ats 'er cottons a' erent hand!"

A most delightful party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Baker, 1676 Valdez street, on Wednesday evening in celebration of the twenty-first birthday of their son, Sumner Baker. The pretty home was charmingly decorated with festoons and draperies of greens; in the living rooms and den; white and pink cosmos blended prettily. In the dining room the decorations were of red geraniums and strings of red hearts. The all important number twenty-one was introduced in the decorations in many charming ways, and the young host was made fully to realize the dignity of his years.

Mrs. Baker, a most glorious hostess, had all the rugs taken up, and the young people danced to their hearts' content. A very dainty supper was served, several small tables accommodating the party. The guests who were musically talented contributed enjoyable numbers. All of the guests entered wholeheartedly into making the evening as successful as possible.

Among the guests were Miss Doris Schnabel, Miss Dessie McFarland, Miss Florence Bernhoff, Miss Jessie Dillon, Miss Mildred Porter, Miss Ethel Moore, Miss Helen Burney, Miss Genevieve Sturm, Miss Olivia Gill, Miss Mary Keyes, Miss Corinne MacLise, Miss Caroline MacLise, Earl Barton, George Davis, George Ludlow, Al Knickerbocker, Fred Kitchener, Paul Farnham, Ashton Porter, George Keyes, Stuart Jolly, Denning MacLise and Harry Taber of San Francisco.

DALTON-CUDDY.
Miss May L. Dalton and Leo J. Cuddy were married on Monday night in St. Patrick's church in West Oakland, by the Rev. Father Sampson. A large number of the friends of the happy pair witnessed the ceremony.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret Dalton. The bridegroom had his business partner, William Wilkinson, as best man. The young couple left immediately on a short honeymoon trip. On their return they will reside in Oakland.

Mrs. Cuddy is a very charming girl who has a large circle of friends in this city. The bridegroom is equally popular, and is widely known in Oakland. He was born in this city and was baptized in the church which on Monday was the scene of his marriage.

OAKLAND CLUB.
Pleasant echoes of the Oakland Club's delightful annual breakfast are still heard. So many charming features entered into it that the affair is one not easily forgotten. Many people have spoken again of Mrs. Hume's splendid talk, which said so much in so little of Mrs. E. J. Dodge's cleverly rhymed response to a toast, and of Mrs. F. R. Chadwick's graceful address of welcome.

All the guests were enthusiastic over the dainty place cards, painted by Mrs. Reginald Davis Holmes, but no guest was better pleased than Madame Neustadt, whose card was a dainty view of Lake Merritt and the willow bordered shore. On Wednesday the club will have as its guest Mrs. Whitcomb, president of the Pioneer Women, who will speak on pioneer days. The day promises much pleasure to the club members and guests.

PRACTICAL PAGE.
Apropos of the recent comment upon the fact that many of our local maidens are having great fun in learning to make their own hats, one may add that for some months many of the socially prominent have been learning to make their own gowns, or at least to alter any that are unsatisfactory.

Mrs. Burgham of First avenue has for some months conducted such classes, and it is surprising to see how many supposedly frivolous folk are fitting themselves to be less at the mercy of their dressmakers than they used to be.

EVENING PARTY.
A most enjoyable surprise was arranged by the friends of Miss Marguerite McCabe for Saturday evening, a merry party of young people gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James McCabe in Apper street in honor of the daughter of the house. Most of the guests belong to the Amicitia Club, of which Miss McCabe is a member.

The rooms were prettily decorated with flowers and greens, and the evening hours were pleasantly spent in dancing, and games. A dainty supper was one of the features of the evening.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. James McCabe, Miss M. McCabe, Miss F. Healy, Miss G. Franks, Miss D. Pauls, Miss E. Pauls, Miss M. Jones, Miss C. French, Miss M. Outman, Miss T. Braun, Miss M. Braun, Miss S. Dake, Miss E. Nolan, Miss M. Eagan, J. Healy, M. Jolly, E. Daly, L. Bignami, L. Khea, J. Rossi, E. Smith, W. Smith, A. Langan, H. Hunt, H. Jackson, W. Keats, J. Walsh and R. Morrissey.

HOME WEDDING.
Miss Maud Insky and Frederick Stevens were married on Thursday at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Richardson. The home was very prettily decorated in honor of the occasion, pink and white blossoms making the rooms very charming.

Rev. Charles Brown read the marriage service in the presence of a number of relatives and close friends of the young people. A dainty supper was served at 9 o'clock and the guests made merry until the departure of the wedded pair.

The bride is a charming girl whose sweet soprano voice gives pleasure to many friends. The bridegroom is a promising young man who has many friends in Oakland, where the young people are to reside.

AFTERNOON AT CARDS.
Mrs. H. Peterson entertained a party of friends on Thursday afternoon at a card affair which proved most pleasant and enjoyable.

The affair was given in honor of Mrs. G. W. Nickerson and Mrs. P. Christensen, who have been visiting in Eastern cities, and Mrs. Peterson and Miss Electra Peterson, who have just returned from Alaska.

The guests of the afternoon were Mrs. G. W. Nickerson, Mrs. P. Christensen, Mrs. Captain Peterson, Miss E. Peterson, Mrs. Dr. Bell, Mrs. N. Nelson, Mrs. A. Kitchin, Mrs. C. Peterson, Mrs. W. Cahill, Mrs. Captain Christensen, Miss A. Kitchin, Mrs. A. Mathieson, Miss Inez Scott, Mrs. J. Lundine, Miss Mae Lundine, Miss Emily Lundberg, Master Dudley Bell and Mrs. H. Peterson.

TO SANTA CRUZ.
Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Hogan had a pleasant trip to Santa Cruz early in the week, spending a day or two on the outing.

AT THE COUNTRY CLUB.
A number of pretty affairs have been given at the Claremont Country Club during the past week, the most elaborate of which was, of course, the F. L. Brown dance on Friday night. Miss Jennie Stone's dinner, preceding the dance, was a charming affair, as was the affair given by Miss Brown on Wednesday evening.

Mrs. E. J. Cotton had a luncheon party on Thursday, and Mrs. Rudolph, Miss Mahoney and Mrs. Lipman gave smaller affairs during the week. On Friday Mrs. Rudolph had a party of twelve in the card room.

Yesterday there were several pretty luncheons, among them one given by Mrs. Glass, wife of Admiral Glass of Berkeley. The party included Mrs. Henry Glass, Mrs. Frank Glass, Mrs. Munson, Mrs. Hebb, Mrs. Fenwick, Mrs. Bishop, Mrs. Brainard, Mrs. Ralston, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Muller, Mrs. Blake, Mrs. Edwin Blake, Miss Johnson, Miss Baily and Miss Hilgard.

Mrs. Benjamin Wheeler had at lunchson Mrs. Flint, Mrs. Loeb and Mrs. Leonard.

Mrs. Parcells entertained Mrs. Ridgeway and Mrs. Clement.

Mrs. Fulman and Mrs. Palmer also had luncheon parties.

In the evening Alfred von der Rapp had a dinner party of six, P. M. Butler a party of ten. The Wilsons, the W. F.

Porters, the Cheyneys, the Bakers and the H. H. Shins were among the others who entertained.

BROWN-TOWER.

A most impressive and beautiful service read by the Rev. Alexander Allen of St. Paul's Episcopal Church last evening united in marriage Miss Alma Brown and Charles K. Tower. A wedding party of about thirty, all relatives, attended the ceremony.

The bride was exquisitely gowned in white lace over soft silk. She wore a long veil and carried lilacs of the valley. There were three matrons of honor. Mrs. Earl A. Stone, gowned handsomely in white satin, and Mrs. J. Loran Pease and Mrs. Albert Brown, in lovely gowns of crepe de chine, rose pink in color. The maid of honor, Miss Mabel Pierce, and the three bridesmaids, Miss Hazel Pierce, Miss Corinne Tower and Miss Gertrude Moller also wore gowns of pink crepe de chine, and carried pink roses.

Martin Hoffmann attended as best man.

The house was most artistically decorated with autumn tinted maple branches,

Oregon grape and large white chrysanthemums in the reception room and hall, and American Beauty roses in the dining room. Congratulations and a supper followed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Tower, in their return they will go to Stockton, where they are to live.

LE TRIANON.

Le Trianon Cotillion gave its first dance of this season on Wednesday evening at the Hillside clubhouse in Berkeley. The affair was one of the most delightful of the season, and the three remaining dances of the series are looked forward to with much pleasure.

Newton F. Andrews, floor manager for Wednesday evening, was assisted by Miss Adele Chamberlain, Miss Ottilie Gilliland, Miss Alice Stewart and Miss Eulalia Moore. The chairmen of the club were Mrs. John H. Burnett, Mrs. Samuel E. Moore and Mrs. C. A. Ferrin.

CRYSTAL WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Schaner celebrated their crystal wedding in a most elaborate manner on the evening of Friday, September 27. In order to accommodate the large party of guests, arrangements were made for the use of the spacious quarters of Oakland Union No.

277, Order of Washington, at Twelfth and Alameda streets.

The wedding ceremony of fifteen years ago was repeated by the same clergyman, Rev. Nelson Saunders of Trinity Church. Congratulations and an elaborate supper followed by an informal dance. Many beautiful gifts of cut glass were received by the host and hostess, who are highly esteemed in fraternal and social circles.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Bryant Campbell, Mrs. M. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Dorrell, Henry Rothenberg,

SHOUP-ROBINSON.
One of the charming weddings of the week was that of Miss Faith Shoup, a popular Chicago girl of Berkeley, who was married last night to Albert Robinson of Chico. The wedding was a very charming affair and although only the relatives and friends attended the reception at the bride's home, the pretty Unitarian Church was filled when the Rev. B. L. Mosser read the marriage service.

little time to receive her friends. For that reason she has set aside the afternoon of Monday, and will be at home between the hours of 4 and 6 at the Key Route Inn. Miss Connell returned from Europe only last week.

AT DINNER.
Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Webster entertained at dinner on Friday evening at their delightful new home, "The Gables," in East Oakland. It was a small party, but a most enjoyable one. Covers were laid for Dr. and Mrs. Murray Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Johnson, Miss Ethel and Elliott Johnson, Miss Charlotte Ployter, Mr. and Mrs. Webster and Arthur Webster.

QUIET WEDDING.
A quiet wedding in which much interest is evinced is that of Charles A. Mills of Oakland and Miss Alice McClatchie of Los Angeles, which is to take place on Sunday, October 27th. Mr. Mills is a suggestive young man who has been in the army for some time. He is a member of the Amicitia Club, of which Miss McClatchie is a member.

The rooms were prettily decorated with flowers and greens, and the evening hours were pleasantly spent in dancing, and

GREAT CHANGES IN THE STANDING OF CONTESTANTS

NEW LEADERS COMING TO FRONT

Don't Be a Back Number, but Be a Winner.

A $100 CASH PRIZE.
AN EXTRA PRIZE OF $100 IN GOLD WILL BE AWARDED TO THE CANDI-DATE WHO WITH THE MOST FRIENDS, BRINGS IN THE LARGEST AMOUNT OF PAID-IN-ADVANCE SUB-SCRIPTIONS FROM FRIDAY, OCTOBER
19, TO SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 2.
ALL SUBSCRIPTIONS PAID IN ADV-ANCE DURING THIS PERIOD,
WHETHER BY CANDIDATES OR THEIR FRIENDS, WILL BE CREDITED IN FAVOR OF A CANDIDATE AS RE-QUESTED.

THE VOTES ISSUED ON THESE SUBSCRIPTIONS CAN BE VOTED AT ANY TIME, OR HELD AND VOTED ON THE LAST NIGHT OF THE CONTEST
IF DESIRED.

AT NO TIME DURING THE CON-TEST WILL ANY MORE DOUBLE VOTES BE ISSUED OR WILL ANY SPECIAL VOTE OFFER BE MADE.
THIS IS AN EXCELLENT CHANCE
TO GET $100 IN EASY MONEY.

GREAT CHANGES.
The week just passed has witnessed great changes in the Tribune's Great $1000 Prize Contest.

Greater activity has been shown during the last week in securing votes and subscriptions than in any week during the whole contest.

This alone shows the earnestness taken by each and every candidate who expects to make a winning fight, and we judge from the way subscriptions have been coming into the office of late that it is probable that a move must be based on the rest of the contestants who expect to be in the running.

CONTEST NEARING CLOSE.
As the contest is nearing its close, a few statements could well be made in regard to the management of the contest, and the methods employed to insure every contestant an absolutely fair deal.

Mention has been made before of the fact that, for the benefit of the contestants who are not familiar with our methods, we will state again:

For every paid-in-advance subscription whether new or old, for three months, six months or one year, a voting certificate good for 10, 300 and 1000 votes, respectively, is issued with name of the candidate, the name of the subscriber, and also the date issued and by whom issued.

The certificates are non-transferable, thus preventing the withdrawal of a candidate and the transferring of their votes to some friend in the contest.

CHECKING SYSTEM.
A perfect check system is employed, whereby, through errors that are always liable to occur, not a single vote can be lost.

Should any one interested in the contest or one of the contestants doubt the accuracy of the counting of the votes and if it is found that a certain recount of the ballots for any one or all of the contestants, THE TRIBUNE is perfected, and any and sundry errors of ballots, or a review by the contestants themselves, or a committee chosen to represent them, if it is found that an error has been made in the counting of the votes, an extra prize of $100 in gold is awarded to the candidate who has the most correct count.

COUPONS IN PACKAGES.
The vote coupons must be tied in packages or placed in envelopes. It is impossible to count thousands of coupons dropped loosely in the box.

A coupon good for one vote will be published by each issue of THE TRIBUNE until the end of the contest. This coupon, if clipped and sent to Contest Manager of THE TRIBUNE, will count as one vote for the contestant named therein.

There is another and better way of securing votes and that is on subscriptions.
Votes will be given on all paid-in-advance
subscriptions as follows:

Three months, $1.00..... 100 extra votes
Six months, $2.00..... 200 extra votes
One year, $4.00..... 400 extra votes
Two years, $8.00..... 800 extra votes
Three years, $12.00..... 1200 extra votes

Three hundred votes are also issued on a classified advertisement coupon book, which contains coupons worth $2.50, but sells for only $2.

CLASSIFIED AD COUPONS.
An innovation in voting contests is the issuing of votes on classified advertisements. A coupon book containing coupons to the value of $2.50 is sold for $1. This is a saving of 20 cents on each dollar, and will prove a great investment for those who advertise in classified advertisements such as "Help Wanted," "For Sale," "Rooms to Rent," etc. These classified advertisement coupons can be used at the time the books are bought or at a later date as may be desired.

ASTONISHED AT PHILIPPINES

Japanese Consul Thinks That America Will Never Relinquish Rich Country.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Mail advices from Manila report that Akasa Tsuka, the Japanese consul for the Philippines, has recently concluded his first visit to the southern islands. Upon his return to Manila, the consul said that the great natural wealth of the Southern Philippines astonished him, and that he can readily see that the United States will never desire to sell the islands.

Mr. Tsuka was very much impressed also with the military government of the Moro provinces. He considers it one of the most effective and practical systems that could be devised for the Moros.

"PLEASED WITH MORO," he said, "seems to be bright and honest, and will, under the present system of government, develop into a fine citizen some day, as have the natives of the mountains of Formosa under the Japanese government.

"Everybody in the Southern Islands seems to be taking hemp and opium, and leaving politics to shift for itself, and there seems to be no question of race, or anything except the development of the country. This and bettering their own conditions seem to occupy Americans, Japanese and Filipinos, and I think that this accounts for the present prosperity."

CAN ENJOIN LABOR UNION

ST. PAUL, October 19.—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today confirmed the decision of the United States district for the eastern district of Missouri holding that it was proper to enjoin a labor organization from boycotting a manufacturing company by forcing contractors to discontinue the use of its products or to do without laborers.

The suit was brought by the Fox Bros.
Manufacturing Company of St. Louis, whose products were boycotted, because they ran an open shop, all union carpenters refusing to work on buildings on which the Fox goods were used.

Mrs. E. H. Benjamin is to be chairman at Ebells' most interesting event this week, which will be the musical given on Tuesday evening under the direction of Sir Henry Heyman.

The program will include only music of a very high order. Sir Henry Heyman will play in a quartet and also in a trio. The other musicians will be Victor De Gomez, cellist; James Todd, violinist; Miss Isabel O'Connor, vocalist, with Mrs. E. H. Garthwaite at the piano. Some very delightful numbers have been prepared, and Ebells may promise its guests a most delightful musical treat.

PROVIDENCE HOSPITAL AUXILIARY. At a large and enthusiastic meeting of the Providence Hospital Auxiliary held on Thursday of this week, the regular election of officers was held, resulting as follows: Mrs. T. P. Hogan, president; Mrs. Henry A. Butters, vice-president; Mrs. A. B. Derby, recording secretary; Mrs. John Francis Smith, corresponding secretary; Miss Eugene McLaren, financial secretary, and Martha Theresa, treasurer. It was practically a re-election of the women who have had the affairs of the hospital in charge for the past year. Miss Hogan has been president ever since the auxiliary was organized.

Mrs. Henry A. Butters came into the board to fill the place of Mrs. O. C. Kirk, whose death has left a place unfilled in many charitable quarters. In accepting the office, Mrs. Butters very touchingly referred to the work of her much-loved predecessor, and said that she felt a very great pride in being chosen to succeed so noble a woman.

The auxiliary has plans to install a free bed in the hospital very shortly, and also a bed for maternity cases among the poor. In these as in all the other work of the auxiliary there is to be no question of creed, the organization is wholly non-sectarian.

to Hold Annual Ball and Banquet.

The grand annual charity ball and banquet to be given by the German Ladies' Relief Society will be held in Ebells Hall on Harrison street, Wednesday evening, November 6.

Extensive arrangements are being made by the members of the organization for the affair, which is scheduled to be one of the most successful balls in the history of the society. One thousand invitations have been issued to the members and their friends, and a large and representative number of people will be present at the ball.

The German Ladies' Relief Society is a benevolent institution and its members supply the wants of the destitute ones who are without food and clothing.

The proceeds of the ball will be placed in the relief fund, which is replenished every year. The society did splendid relief work after the disaster of April, 1906, when hosts of poverty-stricken people came over to Oakland for aid. The German ladies were then among the first to come to the front with a helping hand.

WARNS AGAINST COTTON GAMBLEAmerican Growers Hold That Attempt to Maintain High Prices Spell Ruin.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—A warning to American cotton growers that cotton gambling and attempts to maintain prices at an abnormally high level would result ultimately in the crippling of the country's export trade, was sounded last night by C. W. Macara, at a banquet given for 115 European cotton manufacturers.

Mr. Macara is the largest individual cotton manufacturer in the world, being the head of the International Federation of Master Cotton Spinners and president of the English Federation. In reply to an address of welcome extended by Health Commissioner W. A. Evans, in behalf of Mayor Busso, Mr. Macara declared that continued high prices of raw cotton in America would force England, France, and other countries to develop their own cotton growing industries in their colonies.

"America now stands at the head of the cotton growing industry," said Mr. Macara, "but if the American growers attempt to maintain abnormal prices for the raw material we foreign manufacturers will be forced to go to some other place for our cotton."

"We do not want a price that would not be remunerative to the grower, but we do not want a fancy price simply because we across the water look to the United States for our supply of raw material."

LAND OFFICE MAKES RULING

Require Four Months Residence
Before Gaining Permission to "Commune" Entries.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—An important change in the regulations for acquiring homesteads on the public domain was announced today by Commissioner Ballinger of the general land office. As an additional precaution against fraud all persons making homestead entries on public lands after November 1 next will be required to be actual residents on the lands for four months before they will be permitted to "commune" the entries to obtain title by a cash payment. Heretofore the period of actual residence has been eight months. The ruling will not affect entries made prior to November 1, 1907.

ALLEGED HINDOO FLED WITH THEIR MONEY

Abdulla Khat, formerly a member of the local Hindoo club and now on route to Hawaii on board a sailing vessel from San Francisco, will be met on his arrival at the island by a delegation of police who will look after him during his stay there, and will provide him with an escort back to Oakland.

Captain of the police yesterday to arrest Khat, who is wanted here for grand larceny. A short time ago one of the local Hindoos met with some business reverses and his countrymen have raised a purse of $225 to give him a new start.

Through a superintendent against depositing money in banks, they placed the purse in the hands of Khat for safe keeping. It is alleged that he took the money with him when he shipped for Hawaii. The complaint is sworn to by G. Martin of 2206 Union street, Berkeley.

GASOLINE FLARE BURNS WOMAN

Farmer's Wife Puts Iron on Stove With Terrible Result.

Another accident similar to the one which yesterday cost Thomas Hutton his life, has seriously injured Mrs. Manuel Silveira, the wife of a ranchman living two miles back of Elmhurst.

Like Hutton, Mrs. Silveira was yesterday attempting to regulate a gasoline station, with which she was pressing some clothing for Sunday. The iron is a patent, back-action affair with burner and gasoline reservoir inside the casing with which pressing is done. Mrs. Silveira placed the contrivance on the stove while she arranged the clothing. Just as she reached for it the whole iron exploded, covering the poor woman with burning liquid. She cried out in agony, bringing her husband to the room. Hastily wrapping her wife in blankets to extinguish the flames, Silveira hastened to a nearby physician, who soon had the unfortunate woman under opiates. Mrs. Silveira is now resting easily, but it is feared by the doctors that she will be permanently disfigured. The patent station was entirely destroyed.

Attorney.

SANTA ANA, October 19.—George S. Best, the former Kolb and Dill comedian, who is charged with bigamy in marrying Miss Cecile Fleming, daughter of C. W. Fleming of Los Angeles, who another wife is said to be living in that city, was arranged before Justice of the Peace Southwick here this morning. Best's preliminary examination was set for Thursday morning. He was arrested in San Francisco Wednesday.

WANTS ATTORNEY.

Neither Miss Fleming nor her father appeared in court. Best asked permission to write to friends in Los Angeles to obtain funds to employ an attorney whom he said he wanted to look up his record.

SWITZERLAND HAS WOMAN JAILER.

GENEVA, Oct. 19.—Switzerland is the only country in the world which has a woman jailer. She is Mme. Jeanne Forchet, a widow in charge of the prison at Aigle, in the Rhodan valley. The position was formerly held by her husband, but on his death she took his place at the desire of the governors.

The widow is quite alone in her work, opens the cells daily, sets the prisoners their tasks, cooks their food and locks them up at night.

Once she was attacked by a brutal fellow, but she gave him such a thrashing that he had to spend a month in the hospital and she has been much respected ever since.

SHOOTS SELF AND CONSORT

Discharged Sailor Fatally Wounds Woman of Tenderloin and Kills Himself.

VALLEJO, Oct. 19.—As the result of a shooting affair in the tenderloin district this morning, Edmund Joseph Curcio, ex-sailor, murderer and suicide, died at noon today from the self-inflicted wounds, and Ella Thompson, a woman of the under world, lies in an unconscious condition with a bullet in her brain, near the left eye. Her death is but the question of a few hours, or at most of a few days.

The shooting, which will result in the double tragedy, occurred in Carothers' dance hall, the scene of a triple tragedy some six weeks ago, when a man, crazed by jealousy, shot his rival in the affections of a woman of the under world, killed her and then turned the bullets on himself, death following in all three cases.

SHOTS STARTLE.

The inmates of the place were startled at 6 o'clock this morning by the sound of three shots issuing from the room occupied by Curcio and the Thompson woman. Upon breaking the door in, they found the two lying side by side in bed with bullet holes in the temples of each and a smoking revolver between them. Both were alive, though unconscious. Curcio had died twice at the woman as she lay by his side, the first bullet tearing a scalp wound a couple of inches long across the scalp, and the second, fired immediately afterwards, entered the right temple, passing across the head about an inch behind the right eye, lodging in the brain near the left eye, in which disorientation set in almost immediately.

He had evidently held the revolver close to the woman's head when firing, as the temple is badly powder burned. He had then turned the pistol upon himself, firing through the right temple, the ball passing through the brain, coming out a short distance behind the left ear. Carothers, the proprietor of the place, endeavored to have the police remove the body from the house, fearing that this second tragedy would follow so close on the other would close this place up.

RETURNS FROM ORIENT.

This the police refused to do, however, as there was no means of caring for them properly at the emergency hospital, but later in the morning Carothers succeeded in having them taken to the home of a colored people, paying, it is claimed, $50 to have them taken there. They were given every attention, but Curcio died at noon. The woman, although not suffering from the convulsions which occurred repeatedly during the morning, tending physician, said that she may live for a couple of days, however.

Curcio returned from the Orient on the Cincinnati a few weeks ago and was sent to the hospital for treatment, being discharged from there three days since, his term of enlistment having expired. He was a Canadian by birth and was twenty-four years of age. It is said that he belongs to a good family in Boston. The Thompson woman came to the local tenderloin several months ago and is about twenty-five years of age. She is apparently of Spanish descent and it is said that she has relatives in the northern part of the State.

MAY JOIN MILITIA.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—Postmaster Eisk has received the following letter from Postmaster General Meyer:

"In order to correct a misconception that seems to exist as to the attitude of the department in regard to enlistment and service in the national guard by employees of the postal service, the following order has been issued:

"Orders, that leave of absence without pay, in addition to the leave of absence with pay authorized by law, will be granted to postal employees who are members of the national guard when called upon to perform military duty by competent authority."

LARGE ANCHOR SAVED FROM SEA

Diver Recovers Warship's Drag-Weight—Transports Coming Home.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—A diver attached to the armored cruiser Maryland succeeded today in finding the five-ton anchor that was lost from the warship, Friday, as she was preparing to sail with her sister ships for Santa Barbara. Arrangements were made to haul up the heavy anchor last night or this morning, when the Maryland will probably leave no time in following the other cruisers to Southern California.

WHALER SOON EXPECTED.

One whaling bark, the John and Whitcomb, is due to return here within a few days from a cruise after sperm whales in the south seas and the coast of Japan, and the right whales of the Okhotsk.

CROOG AND BUFORD COMING.

The next of the army transports to arrive from the Philippines will be the Crook, which left Nagasaki for this city direct on October 19, and is expected to reach port on the 24th. On board at the mouth of the second battalion of the Third Infantry, following the regiment to Fort Leavenworth. The Crook is also bringing a number of saloon passengers. The transport Buford, returning from the Philippines in ballast, is calling at Honolulu en route and will be here in about eight days.

MAIL FROM AUSTRALIA.

Fourteen bags of mail from Australia were brought to port by the Norwegian freight steamer Eir, Captain Marcussen, arriving this morning, thirty-two days from Newcastle, with a cargo of 5500 tons of coal. The Eir belongs to the Nordic line, which began last August to operate monthly steamers between coast ports and Australia, carrying mail and freight, but no passengers. The Aeon of this line is to sail next Friday from this port.

NEBRASKA COMES TO PORT.

Direct from the port of Salina Cruz on the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, the American-Hawaiian steamer Nebraska, Captain Knight, arrived today this morning, nine and a half days out, with a cargo of several thousand tons of merchandise from the Eastern coast. The Mexican, also from the Isthmus, with 6000 tons of Eastern and European freight is to arrive tomorrow by way of San Diego.

VOYAGE TO SOUTH SEAS.

The barkentine S. N. Castle, which has been engaged in the cod-fishing trade, and was one of the vessels freighted away from Okhotsk sea by the Russian grainboat Manjur, is loading a cargo for Tahiti, Pago-Pago, Apia and perhaps other places in the South Seas. The date of her departure has not yet been fixed.

WATER FRONT NOTES.

The British steamer Bordenor, Captain Black arrived this morning, twenty-nine days from Newcastle, Australia, with a cargo of 5593 tons of coal. The whaling steamer Narwhal, recently arriving from the Arctic, went to Oakland creek today to remain through the winter.

Tomorrow the Kosmos steamers Denderan and Setos will be due from Europe and the southern coast.

Moore & Scott have the government steamer McDowell on the Sixteenth street dry dock for painting and repairs. They also have the Mexican steamer St. Denis in dock undergoing extensive repairs to hull and machinery. The vessel will be floated again in about a week.

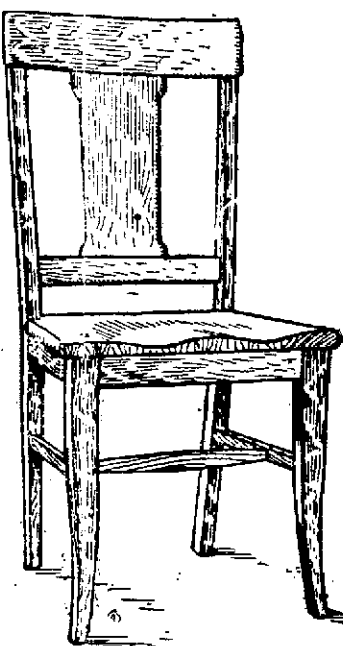

REFLOAT STEAMSHIP.

HAMBURG, Oct. 19.—The steamer President Grant, from New York, which grounded in the river Elbe, has been floated.

Amazing and Prodigious Success

The wonderful success of the great Eilers' Music Company's money-saving offering during the last six days has caused happiness and rejoicing in between 50 and 50 Alameda county homes. The most pertinent question asked by the majority of purchasers are these: "Do you honestly mean to say that we can buy one of your high-grade pianos simply upon the payment of $5.00?" "Will you deliver us a piano on such a small deposit?" "Is this an advertising scheme, or is it genuine?" "Will you absolutely guarantee a saving of from 15 to 25 per cent?" To all of these questions we reply that all schemes of every description are eliminated from this offering. It is simply a straightforward, legitimate, business proposition to reduce our immense stock. We realize that to dispose of a large number of pianos quickly drastic measures must be adopted. Numbers of our delighted purchasers during the last six days have voluntarily offered us their written testimonials expressing their sincere satisfaction, etc. Many of them have visited the important piano stores of both cities and after careful investigation, emphatically say that combined with our easy pay plan our prices really offer a genuine saving of from 15 to 25 per cent. We will absolutely guarantee this and furthermore make the same assertion to a million of the sale. If you ever think of purchasing a new piano at least call at our Oakland warehouses, 1675 Clay street, and convince yourself. Only four days remain for you to supply yourself with a piano on this most remarkable proposition. Combined with our immense stock of about 40 different makes of new pianos ranging in price from $122 to $1100, we have taken in exchange during the last ten days on our exclusive American Piano and very many high-grade second-hand pianos which will also be offered during the next few days at from $65 upwards. Also several very fine second-hand piano players, including such makes as the Mason, Amberg, "Cordian," Chase & Baker, etc., which also must be quickly disposed of at prices ranging from $65 to $120. During the next four days our Oakland warehouses, 1675 Clay street, will be open for customers to compare piano prices who find it impossible to call during the day, and also to comply with the urgent requests we have had from quite a few prospective buyers. Remember that all pianos sold are accompanied by the well-known Eilers' long-dated guarantee, which provides any possibility of dissatisfaction. All pianos sold must be exactly as represented or money refunded.

The Linen Sale

Great buying and small prices go hand in hand. We rank among the large buyers of the country. It is an open secret that we are never frightened at quantity if the price leans our way strongly enough. That's why we can sell these linens so far below the market value. We bought enormous quantities—bought where our dollars counted most—and are sharing the money we saved with you. And there's an additional saving—the worry and doubts regarding the goodness of the linens. We never offer you little prices at the expense of quality. The gaps made by last week's spirited selling have been filled up with new lots from our reserve stock—the assortment is just as complete as it was the first day of the sale.

Handsome Neck Furs—Muffs—and Sets

THERE is no store in Oakland like Kahns' for stylish furs. We are not the only people who think so—the way this business keeps growing is convincing proof that the women of Alameda County are of the same mind. Our prices are lowest, too. There isn't a shadow of a doubt about it. A thorough knowledge of what other stores say and do only tends to throw into stronger relief the superior excellence of our values. It can be laid down as an unfailing rule that whenever competition goes below our prices it also goes considerably below our qualities. Judge all our values by the four below.

The Sheet Sale

This sale offers a chance to secure splendid bed muslins at less than the cost of the sheeting by the yard, with all the bother of making thrown in to make the bargains still larger. The sheets were torn from the piece—not cut—thus assuring straight edges when laundered. The sewing was done by expert operators and all seams are stitched perfectly straight. Vast buying—when materials and labor cost far less than they do today—is the only reason for the astonishingly great values.

This sale created a tremendous sensation last week—the department was packed with buyers from Monday morning until the store closed Saturday night. Little wonder—it's like buying gold dollars at a big discount.

Shoe Comfort

BEFORE style—before durability—before every other merit of a shoe, comes comfort. Without comfort a shoe is unendurable. We select our shoes with this fact in mind.

Which does not mean that to attain comfort, style, wear, value or fit has been sacrificed in the least.

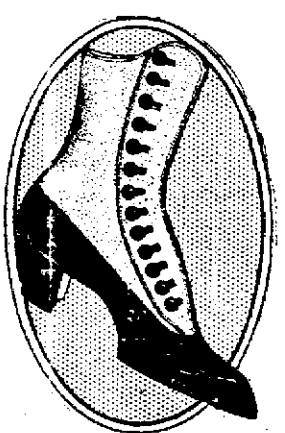

A visit to our shoe department will reveal shoes that satisfy the most "foot-particular" in every sense.

And comfort is not all in the shoe itself—but in the careful, skillful fitting our patrons receive.

A trial will prove.

We are Sole Agents for Sorosis Shoes

The very finest $3.50, $4.00 and $5.00 Shoes for women in the world.

Some Dress Goods Specials

CLOTH SUITINGS—stylish, sturdy-wearing fabrics of sterling reliability—head the list of special bargains in our Dress Goods Department this week. He got anxious and took the short road to comfort by turning them over to us at a fraction of what he intended to sell them for. They are from 52 to 54 inches and beautifully finished. Colors—navy, myrtle, brown and garnet. They are worthy of your quickest thought for they are amaz- 48c

Altura Broadcloth—the popular fabric for tailor-made gowns. 52 inches wide—finished with a beautifully calendered surface—black and every fashionable color. Exceptional value at, 98c per yard.

Merveilleux Broadcloth—made by a famous French manufacturer. Chiffon finish—52 inches wide—black and all the new colors and shades. A very strong value—a bargain in fact—at per $1.48 yard.

No matter whether your new suit is gray, brown, blue, green or red and you want a hat to match it, or whether you want a black hat that "goes with nearly everything"—

BERKELEY Oct 19—Joseph J. Mason of the firm of Mason McDuffie Co. is to retire from active business life on Oct. 24th the anniversary of his 63rd birthday. Mason has been in the real estate business in this city for twenty years. He will hereafter devote his time to the building of first class residences in Berkeley and will still retain his interest in the firm of the Mason McDuffie company. No change will be made in the name of the firm.

As the pioneer realty dealer of the city, Mason has had much to do with its growth having succeeded in bringing many prominent residents to Berkeley. He has seen the city grow from a mere village to one of the largest cities on the coast and has had some of the largest realty deals in its history. For a number of years, Mason had his office in the old Thomas Lann building at the southeast corner of Center street and Shattuck avenue. He sold the property in 10 years ago to T. T. Wilford of Alameda, for $24,500. The structure was destroyed by fire about two years ago and as an example of how property values have risen, the $20,000 was refunded to the bare land after the dam had swept over it.

WATER COMPANY
SUPPLY

Berryman Reservoir is Cleaned and Break in Feed Main Repaired.

PRESIDENT TITUS SAYS
NO MORE SHORTAGE

BERKELEY, Oct 19—Announcement has been made by the People's Water Company that there will be no more turning off of water in this city. The break in the feed main at Potrero and Diamond streets has been repaired and the Berryman reservoir has been cleaned and refilled. The repairing of the break means that there will be no more shortages of water in South Berkeley and the refilling of the reservoir means plenty of water for North Berkeley.

IN GOOD SHAPES

This condition of things has now been ended. Titus explained that the company had put forth heroic efforts to get that part of the plant left in wretched condition by the old Contra Costa Company in repair and that now the supply of water was in good shape and would remain so.

I personally visited the Berryman reservoir today, said Sherman, and found that it had been emptied and thoroughly cleaned and refilled with 5,000,000 gallons of water. It is being kept constantly replenished with a six inch stream from Wildcat Creek. This means that North Berkeley is all right. Titus assured us that the south end has never been in such good shape and there will be no more inconvenience from the shutting off of water either in the day or night.

PLAN TO USE "TAXIMETERS"

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 19.—The promise now is that after next May the man who rides in a cab in Chicago will not be overcharged unless he consents to it. The city council license committee yesterday unanimously recommended for passage the "taximeter" ordinance and the best in the city hall is that the council will pass it.

ORDINANCE FOR CHARGES.
The ordinance provides that after May 1, 1908, all cabs, hacks and other public conveyances for individual hire shall be equipped with taximeters placed in plain sight of the occupants and showing the number of miles traveled, the amount of time used and the charge the driver is entitled to make.
These taximeters must be inspected by the commissioner of public works every month. If one is found to register wrong, then the cab which carries it is to be put out of commission until the machine is put back in working order.

If the ordinance is passed Chicago will be the first city in America to install them officially. Some of them are in operation in New York, but, like those in London, they were put in voluntarily by cab owners who found that they increased their business. In Paris and Berlin, on the Continent, however, their use is compelled by city regulations.

GREAT THINGS FOR WIRELESS

Edison Says That Marconi Will Send 1000 Words Per Minute.

Thomas A. Edison predicts great things for the future of the Marconi wireless system as the following telegram received in Oakland today, will show:

New York, Oct. 19.
Times quotes Edison gives Marconi ten years and he will be sending and receiving 1000 words a minute. Handled a total of 16,000 words first day.

The great inventor realizes the success of the Marconi wireless, and his recognition of it as the great means of future communication points of approval upon it. A thousand words a minute seems like an incredible task upon the new system yet that is the predicted result of Marconi's work.

ALL COMPLETE.
Commercial airmails, traversing the Atlantic ocean at the speed of some million miles a second, become an established fact last Thursday afternoon when the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company began sending trans-Atlantic messages at the rate of 10 cents a word from Glace Bay.

Telegrams to be sent by wireless piled into the office of the Marconi company morning and after the first formal opening message was sent the wireless operators began to receive and send messages to various newspapers in England, and the heaps of telegrams for transmission sent over the wires of the Western Union and Canadian Pacific Railroad telegraph systems.

The first announcement on the workings of the new established ethereal telegraph system sent to the New York office of the Marconi Company reads: "Everything going splendidly. Sent 2000 words already. Be busy all day."

NO FORMAL OPENING.
There was no formal opening of the Glace Bay office. It had been planned to invite a few guests to witness the sending of the first commercial messages, but owing to the dying condition of one of the operators, Mr. Hinkley, the guests were notified that the opening would be private.

The first message sent was sent by Premier Wilfrid Laurier, who congratulated the British people on the new means of communication established between Great Britain and Canada.

This message was received without a flicker of the line, and it was sent and flashed from there to every newspaper in the kingdom.

LORD MAYOR WIRES.
Lord Mayor Sir William J. Trevelock also voiced the sentiments of financial and social London by sending one of the first wireless messages to William Randolph Hearst in New York as follows:

"I heartily congratulate Mr. Marconi upon the success he has achieved and as Lord Mayor, the head of the greatest city in the world, whose greatness is maintained by commerce, I think the good which Mr. Marconi has done to commerce is incalculable. I am heartily glad to be able to congratulate him through the press."

"Closer communication can but lead to greater friendliness between the two greatest nations in the world and lead also to the two people more fully understanding each other by a greater inter-communication of news."

"W. P. TRELOAR, Lord Mayor, 'The Mansion House, London.'"

RATE IS LOW.
In the hall room of the station in Port Arthur, England, where 225 and 600 horsepower, but 200 horsepower has been found sufficient to transmit wireless messages across the ocean. The commercial rate for wireless messages will be 10 cents a word, and the press rate 5 cents a word between Britain and Port Arthur.

NOTABLES TO AIR TRUSTS

Five Hundred Delegates to National Civic Federation Will Assemble.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—What is expected to prove one of the most important discussions of the trust question will begin Tuesday morning at Studebaker Hall when President Nicholas Murray Butler of the National Civic Federation will call to order nearly five hundred delegates, among them some of the most noted men in the country.

Secretary Ralph M. Basley of the federation, arrived in Chicago yesterday and opened headquarters at the Stratford Hotel, where he will receive the delegates from forty-two States, who are to attend the meeting. Many of the delegates, among them the New York delegation, headed by Seth Low, and including Samuel Compers of the American Federation of Labor, Dr. Albert Shaw, of the American Review of Reviews, and Nathan Straus, will arrive Monday morning. The session will last four days.

FEDERAL OFFICIALS.
Among those who have enlightened their intention of being at the conference are: Charles D. Smith, United States Commissioner of Corporations; E. E. Clark, of the Interstate Commerce Commission; E. B. Kellogg, special counsel for the government in the Standard Oil cases.

An interesting debate on the tariff question will be that between William Lloyd Garrison, of the American Free Trade League and W. F. Wakeman, of the American Protective Tariff League. Samuel Compers, John Mitchell, and other national labor leaders, will tell of labor's relation to the trust question.

His Dear Old Mother.
"My dear old mother, who is now eight-three years old, thrives on Electric Bitters," writes W. B. Brunson, of Dublin, Ga. "She has taken them for about two years and enjoys an excellent appetite, feels strong, and sleeps well. That's the way Electric Bitters affect the aged, and the same happy results show in all cases of female weakness and general debility. Weak, puny children too, are greatly strengthened by them. Guaranteed also for stomach, liver and kidney troubles, by Osgood Bros., Druggists, Inc."
